Organization and Activities

THE AMERICAN HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION

THE ASSOCIATION

The American Historical Association, incorporated by Act of Congress in 1889, is defined by its charter to be: A body corporate and politic . . . for the promotion of historical studies, the collection and preservation of historical manuscripts, and for kindred purposes in the interests of American history and of history in America.

It is a society not only for scholars, though it has for the last half century included in its membership the outstanding historical scholars in America, not only for educators, though it has included the great American teachers of history, but also for every man and woman who is interested in the study of history in America. Its most generous benefactors have been nonprofessionals who love history for its own sake and who wish to spread that love of history to a wider and wider circle.

LEADERSHIP

Among those who have labored as members and later served it also as President, the American Historical Association can list such distinguished names as George Bancroft, Justin Winsor, Henry Adams, James Ford Rhodes, Alfred Thayer Mahan, Henry C. Lea, John Bach McMaster, Frederick Jackson Turner, Theodore Roosevelt, Edward Channing, Woodrow Wilson, J. Franklin Jameson, Charles M. Andrews, James H. Breasted, James Harvey Robinson, Michael Rostovtzeff, Carl L. Becker, and Charles A. Beard.

ANNUAL MEETING

It meets in the Christmas week at a different place each year to accommodate in turn members living in different parts of the country. The attendance at these meetings has been increasing steadily. In recent years, it has exceeded 1,300. The formal programs of these meetings include important contributions to every field of historical scholarship, many of which are subsequently printed.

PUBLICATIONS

The publications of the Association are many and their scope is wide. The Annual Report, usually in two or more volumes, is printed for the Association by the United States Government. It contains Proceedings and valuable collections of documents, as well as bibliographies and guides to materials. The American Historical Review, published quarterly and distributed free to all members of the Association, is the recognized organ of the historical profession in America. It prints authoritative articles and critical reviews of new books in all fields of history. The Association also cooperates with the National Council for the Social Studies in the publication of Social Education, one of the most important journals in America dealing with the problems of history teaching in the schools.

Besides these periodical publications, the Association controls a revolving fund donated by the Carnegie Corporation out of which it publishes from time to time historical monographs selected from the whole field of history. It has as well two separate endowment funds, the income from which is devoted to the publication of historical studies. The Albert J. Beveridge Fund of $100,000 was established as a memorial to the late Senator Beveridge by his wife, Catherine Beveridge, and a large group of his friends in Indiana. The income from this fund is applied to the publication of historical monographs. The Littleton-Griswold Fund was established by Alice Griswold in memory of her father, William E. Littleton, and of her husband, Frank T. Griswold. The income from this fund, the principal of which amounts to $32,000, is applied to the publication of material relative to the legal history of the United States in the colonial period.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

The Association from time to time, through special committees, interests itself actively in promoting the sound teaching of history in the schools. It has done much and is doing more to collect and preserve historical manuscripts in public and private repositories. It has interested itself in developing the potentialities of the radio as an instrument of education.

The Association maintains close relations with state and local historical societies and with the federal government. It has also organized a Pacific Coast Branch for members living in the Far West.

SOURCES OF SUPPORT

The American Historical Association is in a position to do significant and useful work, not only in the advancement of learning but also in the dissemination of knowledge. It commands the resources of the learned world, but it also recognizes the necessity of bringing the fruits of learning to the average American. It needs to be supported. Its endowment funds, amounting to about $414,800 are carefully managed by a Board of Trustees composed of men prominent in the world of finance. But most of the income from this endowment is earmarked for special publications. For its broader educational purposes it has to depend chiefly upon its membership dues. It has over 5,900 members.

MEMBERSHIP

The American Historical Association welcomes to its membership anyone who subscribes to its purposes. There is no initiation fee. The annual membership, including subscription to the American Historical Review, is 5 dollars. The life membership is 100 dollars. Inquiries about any phase of its activities may be addressed to the Executive Secretary of the Association, Study Room 274, Library of Congress Annex, Washington 25, D. C.

PRIZES

The Association offers the following prizes:

The Herbert Baxter Adams Prize, without stipend, is awarded biennially in the even-numbered years for a monograph, in manuscript or in print, in the field of European history.

The George Louis Beer Prize of about $200 (being the annual income from an endowment of $6,000) is awarded annually for the best work on any phase of European international history since 1895. Competition is limited to citizens of the United States and to works in the English language. A work may be submitted either in manuscript or in print.

The John H. Dunning Prize of about $100 is awarded biennially in the even-numbered years for a monograph, either in print or in manuscript, on any subject relating to American history. In accordance with the terms of the bequest, competition is limited to members of the Association.

The Watumull Prize of $500 is awarded biennially, beginning with 1949, for the best book originally published in the United States on any phase of the history of India.

The Robert Livingston Schuyler Prize of $100 is awarded every 5 years, beginning with 1951, to the author of the best work of scholarship published during the preceding 5-year period in the field of modern British and British Imperial and Commonwealth history since the beginning of the reign of Elizabeth exclusive of American colonial history before 1783. Textbooks and elementary narratives are not eligible. The author must be an American citizen, and the books must have been originally published in the United States. This prize is made possible by the Taraknath Das Foundation.

All works submitted in competition for the above prizes must be in the hands of the proper committee by June 1 of the year in which the award is made. The date of publication of printed monographs submitted in competition must fall within a period of 2½ years prior to June 1 of the year in which the prize is awarded.

The Albert J. Beveridge Memorial Fellowship, established at the annual meeting in 1945, is awarded annually, beginning in 1946, for the best original manuscript, either complete or in progress, on American history. By American history is meant the history of the United States, Latin America, and Canada. The fellowship has a cash value of $1,000, plus a royalty of 5 percent after cost of publication has been met. The winning manuscript in each annual competition is published without cost to the author in the series of Beveridge Fund publications; other manuscripts also may be so published at the discretion of the committee on the Albert J. Beveridge Memorial Fund, which is charged with the administration of the fellowship. As small a part as one-half of the manuscript may be submitted at the time of application, but it must be accompanied by a detailed outline of the balance. The deadline for the submission of applications and manuscripts is June 1.

Act of Incorporation

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That Andrew D. White, of Ithaca, in the State of New York; George Bancroft, of Washington, in the District of Columbia; Justin Winsor, of Cambridge, in the State of Massachusetts; William F. Poole, of Chicago, in the State of Illinois; Herbert B. Adams, of Baltimore, in the State of Maryland; Clarence W. Bowen, of Brooklyn, in the State of New York, their associates and successors, are hereby created, in the District of Columbia, a body corporate and politic by the name of the American Historical Association, for the promotion of historical studies, the collection and preservation of historical manuscripts, and for kindred purposes in the interest of American history, and of history in America. Said Association is authorized to hold real and personal estate in the District of Columbia so far as may be necessary to its lawful ends to an amount not exceeding $500,000, to adopt a constitution, and make bylaws not inconsistent with law. Said Association shall have its principal office at Washington, in the District of Columbia, and may hold its annual meetings in such places as the said incorporators shall determine. Said Association shall report annually to the Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, concerning its proceedings and the condition of historical study in America. Said Secretary shall communicate to Congress the whole of such report, or such portions thereof as he shall see fit. The Regents of the Smithsonian Institution are authorized to permit said Association to deposit its collections, manuscripts, books, pamphlets, and other material for history in the Smithsonian Institution or in the National Museum, at their discretion, upon such conditions and under such rules as they shall prescribe.

Proceedings
OF THE
AMERICAN HISTORICAL
FOR
1951

Minutes of the Meeting of the Council Hotel Statler, New York, N. Y.

DECEMBER 27, 1951, 2 P. M.

Present: Robert L. Schuyler, President; Solon J. Buck, Treasurer; Guy Stanton Ford, Executive Secretary; Thomas A. Bailey, Leo Gersho, Paul Knaplund, Dexter Perkins, Max H. Savelle, Joseph R. Strayer, A. P. Whitaker, Councilors; Sidney B. Fay, Samuel E. Morison, Conyers Read, William L. Westermann, former Presidents; John H. Kemble, Pacific Coast Branch.

President Schuyler called the meeting to order.

The minutes of the 1950 Council meeting were approved as published in the April, 1951, issue of the Review (pp. 735-41).

Mr. Ford summarized his report as Executive Secretary and Managing Editor.

The Treasurer, Dr. Buck, reviewed the financial statement for the fiscal year 1950-51 which he later summarized at the business meeting. The financial assets of the Association on August 31, 1951, amounted to $479,704.46 of which $220,754.10 is unrestricted and $258,950.36 restricted. The receipts of unrestricted funds exceeded disbursements by $7,311.13. This sum includes, however, $2,569.94 transferred from the special account "Americana for College Libraries" for investment but not yet invested. Deducting that sum leaves an actual surplus of $4,741.19.

Dr. Buck reported for the Finance Committee, submitting an amended budget for the current year and a proposed budget for the next fiscal year. After full discussion, these and the expenditure of money spent in excess of the original budget were approved.

The Council reviewed the matter of financing annual meetings from exhibition and advertising space. After a thorough discussion, it was resolved that the rates for exhibition space be increased to $50 and advertising space in the program to $75 per page and proportionately more for cover space. The Executive Secretary was authorized to increase the registration fee, not to exceed 2 dollars.

The Council next gave consideration to the publishing problem presented by the inadequacy of the Smithsonian funds to cover both the Writings on American History and the Matteson Index when the latter is ready, Dr. Buck pointed out that presumably the director of the National Historical Publications Commission would, in view of the fact that the Commission is taking over the preparation of the Writings, propose a new system for their distribution. This might involve a charge to those who desire to receive the Writings.

The Council next considered the question of increasing annual and life membership dues and setting up junior memberships. After full discussion, Dr. Buck moved that it be recorded as the consensus of the Council that the dues for annual membership should be increased from $5.00 to $7.50, that the dues for life membership should be increased from $100.00 to $150.00, and that provision should be made for a junior membership at approximately $4.00. Further, that the present president be instructed to appoint a committee to investigate the problems involved and to formulate necessary amendments for action by the Council by mail vote and then for circulation to the members of the Association at least 20 days in advance of the 1952 annual meeting of the Association. The motion was seconded and unanimously carried.

After some discussion of the problem raised by the resignation of Professors Morris, Billington, and Whitaker as chairmen of the Littleton-Griswold Fund Committee, Carnegie Revolving Fund for Publications Committee, and Albert J. Beveridge Memorial Fund Committee, respectively, the Council approved the recommendations for membership on the committees for 1952.

Professor Whitaker presented for comment and advice some changes in the procedures for publishing manuscripts now being considered by the Committee on the Albert J. Beveridge Memorial Fund. The substance of the change would be to give the author an election between publication by the committee and choosing his own publisher. The changes would be made in the hope of attracting manuscripts from established scholars. (1) Without altering the cash value of the fellowship, which would remain at $1,000, the publication terms would be modified. Instead of publication in the Beveridge series under contract with the University of Pennsylvania Press, the recipient might elect to arrange for publication through a private publisher or university press. He would be given one year to complete such an arrangement. No publication costs would be charged to the Beveridge Fund but due acknowledgment would be given to the Beveridge Fund and the publication would carry the Beveridge seal. If no arrangement was made by the author, the chairman would proceed to publish in the usual way through the committee's publisher. (2) There would be no change in the present terms of honorable mention awards, but not more than three grants-in-aid of publication would be awarded. In case three honorable mentions were awarded, it would involve grants-in-aid of $1,000 each in that year. In these cases the author would use the $1,000 as a subvention to his own publisher without further expense to the Beveridge Fund.

The discussion centered chiefly on the fellowship. Mr. Buck thought the fellowship at present stimulates publishing of desirable works by promising scholars. He would be disturbed if this change resulted in all Beveridge awards being given to works by established scholars that would be published even if they were not given the Beveridge prize. Professor Whitaker thought the change would not only attract more advanced scholars but the award of the fellowship would attract the attention of publishers as well. The committee hopes the proposed plan would enable them to publish four manuscripts instead of two and at less cost to the fund. The matter was referred back to the committee with the suggestion that the committee really convince itself that it is saving money, putting more books out, and that the quality of the series will continue to serve scholars who need this kind of assistance.

Then, speaking as the American representative on the Pan American Institute of Geography and History, Professor Whitaker presented the following resolutions which were endorsed by the Council:

Resolved, That this Council is very favorably impressed by what the Commission on History has accomplished with the limited funds at its disposal, and regards this Commission as an agency of substantial present value, and still greater potential value, for the promotion both of historical scholarship and of international cooperation among historians;

Resolved, That since the Commission on History is a division of an intergovernmental organization, the Pan American Institute of Geography and History, this Council hopes that the United States Government will take appropriate steps with a view to increasing the financial support accorded the Commission on History by the governments of the American Republics;

Resolved, That the Executive Secretary transmit duly authenticated copies of this resolution to the Secretary of State of the United States, the President of the Pan American Institute of Geography and History, and the United States Member of the Commission on History.

The Council, which had received mimeographed copies of the report of the ad hoc Committee on Historians and the Federal Government, then discussed this report and the future status of the committee. This action was in accord with the resolution of one year ago which extended the life of the committee for one year. The discussion of the report indicated that the Council was not yet ready to make the committee in its present form, on the basis of this report, a permanent committee of the Council. It declined to authorize further solicitation of additional funds beyond the present balance of December 21, 1951, of $1,337.98. However, as this sum would lapse on March 1, 1952, the chairman of the committee was authorized to solicit the extension of the grant to December 31, 1952. The discussion of the past performance of the committee and of future possibilities of any such committee ranged over many topics. The Council was clearly interested in the problem of recruiting personnel for government historical work. Supplying this type of service did not seem to be a function that could be performed by a committee and the idea of an additional person in the executive office hardly seemed practical from the standpoint of both funds and space. In the end, on motion duly seconded and passed, the committee as it stands was continued for another year but definitely charged with preparing a report embodying a definite plan for a committee which would perform the functions subsumed under the name of the temporary committee. This report should be in the hands of the Executive Secretary in time for circulation and consideration at the next meeting of the Council.

Mr. Ford, as Managing Editor of the Review, nominated Professor David E. Owen of Harvard to succeed Professor F. C. Dietz, who was retiring after a 5-year term on the Board of Editors. The Council indicated approval of this nomination.

As delegates to the Social Science Research Council, the Council elected Professor Ray A. Billington for a term of 3 years to succeed Professor Shepard B. Clough and Professor Gordon A. Craig as a replacement for Professor Elmer Ellis, whose term will expire at the end of 1952.

By unanimous vote, the Council nominated, for confirmation of the American Documentation Institute, Solon J. Buck as its delegate to the Institute.

Professor John H. Kemble of Pomona College presented a summary of the report of the Pacific Coast Branch. The membership showed a slight gain in the last year and the financial condition of the Branch continues on a sound basis. Professor Kemble expressed the gratification of the Branch for the generosity of the Council in renewing the subvention for its operation next year. The Council then authorized the Executive Secretary to extend greetings to the Council and membership of the Pacific Coast Branch with wishes for success of their meetings which were in session on the campus of Stanford University December 27, 28, and 29.

On motion made and carried, the Council gave approval to the budget for Social Education.

Motion was made, seconded, and unanimously approved confirming the action of the Executive Secretary in securing Professor Sidney Painter of Johns Hopkins as program chairman for the Washington meeting in 1952 and Dean Elmer Kayser of George Washington University as chairman of local arrangements.

Mr. Ford reported on the settlement of the Matteson estate for the information of the Council. The invested funds as of August 31, 1951, were valued at $65,360. It is expected that this amount will be increased by funds received after August 31.

The Council then took under consideration the problem of refinancing certain bibliographies in English history, Gross (Sources and Literature of English History), Read, and Davies. Of these bibliographies, the Gross is out of print and should not be published without revision. The Read at least is in short supply, enough for 2 years more, and the Davies is in need of revision although the edition is not exhausted. Mr. Ford read the following letter from the Clarendon Press:

Thank you for your letter of 13 November about Reads' Bibliography of Tudor History. I take it that your letter arises out of my letter to Professor Hale Bellot of the Royal Historical Association in which I explained to him that stock was now reduced to rather less than 2 year's supply and asked him about the problem of revision.

Your letter calls attention to the provision under the agreement by which the A.H.A. could call upon the Delegates to reprint and, failing agreement by the Delegates to do so, could recover the rights of publication, etc. I do not think there is any likelihood that this clause will need to be invoked; for my letter to Professor Hale Bellot implied readiness to proceed with the reprint.

You will recall that by another clause in the agreement any profits were to be devoted first to the repayment of excess corrections, and thereafter "to further the scheme, whether by way of further volumes of the Bibliography proper or by way of supplementation or revision when the time for such revision comes." The sum paid by A. H. A. for excess corrections has long since been refunded. It therefore remains to determine what sum can be allocated to the revision of particular volumes. I shall now have this looked into.

Meanwhile it would be a help if you could give us some more precise idea of what revision of the Tudor volume Dr. Conyers Read and the A. H. A. think necessary. In particular will it be on a scale which will make resetting of the whole book necessary? For, if so, production of the new edition will be very expensive. It may be, on the other hand, possible to make do with a supplement. Until we have some more exact idea of what is required we cannot make estimates for the cost of the new edition.

A forecast of the time it will take before the material is ready to go to the Printer would also be helpful.

In general you may assure your Council that the Delegates will be anxious to see that this great series is kept going and in the state where it will be most useful to scholars.

Mr. Ford then read the following letter from President W. K. Jordan of Radcliffe College:

May I request that you consider with the Council of the American Historical Association a proposal for exploring the possibilities of preparing and publishing revised editions of the standard bibliographies which bear the names of Gross, Read, and Davies?

I need scarcely say that these are bibliographical works of the first importance and that they are monuments to American scholarship. Moreover, this great series has been extended by the recently published work of Stanley Pargellis. Unfortunately, they are now badly out-of-date, the Gross volume (dealing with the Middle Ages) having been published, in its last edition, in 1915, the Read volume (dealing with Tudor England) having been published in 1933, and the Davies volume (dealing with the Stuarts) having appeared in 1928. Moreover, I am informed that the Read volume is now out of print.

I think all scholars would agree that it would be disastrous if these volumes were to go out of print and that it would be unfortunate if each generation of scholars did not undertake the necessary periodic revisions required if they are to be fully useful.

While engaged in research in England this summer, I talked with a number of English historians about the whole problem and since my return have been in correspondence with several of my American colleagues about the matter. Everyone with whom I have discussed the question seems agreed that we ought to explore the possibilities of a new edition and that we ought to do so with the approbation of the Council of the American Historical Association. May I therefore request that you and the Council consider setting up a committee composed of Godfrey Davies, W. K. Jordan, Wallace Notestein, Conyers Read, Kenneth Setton, and Louis B. Wright to explore the question and that you authorize this committee to negotiate with the Clarendon Press for the publication of revised editions of the Gross, Read, and Davies bibliographies, subject to the approval of the Council of the American Historical Association of any tentative agreement reached with the publishers? Since careful and thorough revision of these volumes will necessarily require a considerable outlay for editorial and clerical assistance, I would likewise propose that the Council authorize the committee to undertake to raise funds in an amount not exceeding $25,000 to cover these expenses.

I should also say that, since the Mediaeval Academy is directly interested in the Gross volume, members of the proposed committee are also asking that body to consider the question.

I need scarcely say that the committee mentioned above is at present a most informal group interested only in initiating the undertaking and that no meetings as yet have been held even for a consideration of detailed plans. I think the whole matter should rest at just this stage until the Council has considered the question and until we have its approval. If you should think it desirable, I am sure that any one of the members of the group would be willing to appear before the Council.

After discussion, the Council, having substituted the name of William E. Lunt for that of Kenneth Setton, authorized the Executive Secretary to ask this committee with Mr. Jordan as chairman to proceed in their planning and submit to the Executive Secretary a draft of the proposed plans for bringing these bibliographies up to date, whether by total revision, by supplements, or otherwise, with an estimate of the sum necessary to carry out their plans. This draft would then be submitted, by mail, to the Council for approval.

The Executive Secretary presented a breakdown and distribution of the membership list and brought up the question of publishing it. The Council agreed that the membership list should be included in the next publication of the Annual Report.

Mr. Ford then called the attention of the Council to the need for a new list of doctoral dissertations in progress. Mr. Buck moved that the Executive Secretary be authorized to prepare and print a new edition of the list at the expense of the J. Franklin Jameson Fund. This motion was seconded by Professor Knaplund and approved.

Upon motion duly made and seconded, the Council voted to hold the 1954 meeting in New York. The meeting in 1952 will be held in Washington, D. C., and in 1953 in Chicago.

The Council elected the following members of the Executive Committee: James G. Randall, Chairman; Dexter Perkins; Robert L. Schuyler; Joseph R. Strayer; Solon J. Buck (ex officio); Guy Stanton Ford (ex officio).

The Council appointed Professor Leo Gershoy as chairman of the Committee on Resolutions.

Under the head of new business and upon recommendation of Mr. Ford, the Council authorized the incoming president to reactivate the committee to choose Mr. Ford's successor as the Executive Secretary of the Association and Managing Editor of the Review. The committee is as follows: Solon J. Buck, Assistant Librarian, Library of Congress, Chairman; Theodore C. Blegen, University of Minnesota; Joseph R. Strayer, Princeton University.

There being no further business, the Council adjourned.

GUY STANTON FORD, Executive Secretary.

Minutes of the Business Meeting

HOTEL STATLER, DECEMBER 29, 1951, 4:15 P. M.

President Robert L. Schuyler called the meeting to order with about two hundred members present. It was unanimously voted to approve the minutes of the last meeting as printed in the April 1951 issue of the American Historical Review.

Mr. Ford read his report as Executive Secretary and Managing Editor.

The Treasurer, Dr. Buck, presented a summary of his report, copies of which had been distributed to the members. The motion was made and passed to accept the report and place it on file.

By unanimous vote, Mr. W. Randolph Burgess was re-elected chairman of the Board of Trustees.

Professor Richard H. Shryock of Johns Hopkins University, representing Miss Louise Fargo Brown, chairman, gave the report of the Nominating Committee. As a result of the mail ballots cast, the committee announced the election of the following:

Members of the Council—E. C. Kirkland of Bowdoin College and Sidney Painter of Johns Hopkins University.

Members of the Nominating Committee—C. Crane Brinton of Harvard University and Thomas C. Cochran of the University of Pennsylvania.

For the Presidency of the Association for the year 1952, the committee nominated Professor J. G. Randall; for the Vice-Presidency, Professor Louis R. Gottschalk; and for the office of Treasurer, Dr. Solon J. Buck. On motion, the Executive Secretary was instructed to cast one ballot for all nominees and they were declared elected.

Mr. Ford summarized the following actions taken by the Council at its meeting: the report of the Committee on Committees; the appointment of Professor David E. Owen as the new member of the Board of Editors; the election of Professors Ray A. Billington and Gordon A. Craig as delegates to the Social Science Research Council, of Professor Robert E. Riegel on the Board of Social Education; the nomination of Dr. Solon J. Buck as delegate to the American Documentation Institute for confirmation of the Institute; the announcement of the program chairman, Professor Sidney Painter, and the local arrangements chairman, Dean Elmer Kayser, for the 1952 meeting; the membership of the Executive Committee; a change in fees for annual and life membership dues and registration at annual meetings.

The report of the Pacific Coast Branch was presented by Professor John H. Kemble.

The Executive Secretary announced that the membership list will be included in the Annual Report for 1951 and that a new list of doctoral dissertations now in progress in the United States will be published sometime late in 1952.

The following resolutions were submitted by Mrs. Jeannette P. Nichols, chairman of the Committee on Government Publications:

WHEREAS, the American Historical Association applauds the efforts of historians in government service and recognizes the obstacles against which they contend, now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the executive officers and the members of the American Historical Association, representing as they do the historians of the entire United States, undertake to remind the appropriate federal officials, senators, and congressmen that (1) in this time of crisis maximum official publication of documents on foreign relations is essential to public understanding, without which United States foreign policy will be subject to ill-advised pressures; and (2) that therefore the reporting to the American people on our foreign policy should be expedited: (a) by speeding up the publication of the four principal State Department series—the Foreign Relations of the United States, United States Treaty Developments, Department of State Bulletin, and the Documents on German Foreign Policy and (b) by expanding the more popular State Department publication program, insofar as this can be done without penalizing the four scholarly series on which the popular program depends for background. And be it further

Resolved, That the American Historical Association, through its executive officers and its membership, urge upon the Administrator of Public Services, the Archivist of the United States, and the chairmen of the appropriating subcommittees of Congress, the need to provide the National Historical Publications Commission with a staff and facilities adequate for publishing materials on key developments in our history and for publishing the papers of our notable leaders, on a scale comparable to that of other great nations, engaged in similar activities. And be it further

Resolved, That the American Historical Association hereby urges the director of the General Services Administration to include in his budget estimate for the years 1952-53 a sum adequate to maintain the publication of the Territorial Papers; and further, to petition the Congress of the United States to appropriate sufficient funds to provide for the continuation of this publication.

On motion made and carried, the above resolutions were approved.

Mr. Ford reported that the Second Congress of Historians of Mexico and the United States will be held in September, 1953.

Professor Leo Gershoy submitted the following resolutions for the Committee on Resolutions:

Resolved, That the American Historical Association record its keen appreciation of the admirably directed energy and patient efforts of the many conscientious workers who individually and collectively contributed to the success of this sixty-sixth annual meeting. It wishes in particular to express its thanks to Dr. Henry F. Graff of Columbia University, chairman of the Committee on Local Arrangements, and his associates for their skillful and co-ordinated handling of a trying and cumbersome assignment; to Professor William H. Dunham of Yale University, chairman of the Program Committee, and his colleagues for the rich variety of offerings they have presented and the timely emphasis of so many of these offerings on the social responsibilities of the historian; to the clerical assistance of many volunteer workers; to the management and the staff of the Statler Hotel and especially to Mr. Charles E. Villaverde; and finally to Mr. John Hastings and the staff of the Columbia University Public Information Office for their able publicity work.

This resolution was unanimously approved.

As there was no further business, Professor Frank M. Anderson moved that the meeting be adjourned.

GUY STANTON FORD, Executive Secretary.

Report of the Executive Secretary and Managing Editor

FOR THE YEAR 1951¹

An executive officer must ask himself when he prepares a report what it is that his fellow members want to know and ought to know about the affairs of our organization. It does not help much to try to remember back to the time when, as a member, you were one of the constituency for something over 40 years. That spans the good old times when the elder statesmen, some of them founders of the Association, were presidents, members of the Council and members of the Board of Editors of the Review, of which some were the actual owners. They ruled wisely and well. One revered them as great teachers and producing scholars. The finances were not a problem, for the chief figure, not only then but in all the history of the first 50 years of the Association and the Review, was J. Franklin Jameson, who was also head of the historical division of the Carnegie Institution in Washington. Problems of headquarters and staff were lightened by mutually profitable services of each organization to the other. There was nothing to be concerned about. At least I cannot remember that as a member I was concerned about anything. Then came the revolt led by three highly vocal recalcitrant members who gave voice in the press, chiefly the Nation of those days, to unbridled attacks that in the end had as much to do with personalities as with principles and procedures. The elder statesmen were deeply hurt but fought back. The puzzled membership could only make out that there was at bottom one reality, namely, a misunderstanding as to the ownership of the Review, which most of us had casually thought was the property as well as the organ of the Association. That transfer made by the individual owners and a change in elections were the concrete results of the controversy. I came on the Council at the end of the unedifying squabble in time to make an impromptu motion that closed it. Frederick Jackson Turner, my old teacher, came up to me afterwards and said that he had never realized that I was such a good politician. This was something of which I was never openly accused again except by a Farmer-Labor member of the Board of Regents of the University of Minnesota. Except for a term as a member of the Board of Editors when Dr. Jameson was the efficient editor, I was, like yourselves, a plain garden variety member. Then the responsibilities of the presidency of the Association turned my attention to the affairs of the organization. A committee headed by Professor John Hicks did a thorough study of the management and found that it had drifted into decentralization in four different centers, the least important of which was in the traditional headquarters in Washington. The committee's report dealt with procedures, finance, and organization, not with persons who were trying to make a four-headed organization work. That is evident, I think, when I can say that three of the four are now on the Council and two have been or are presidents of the Association. Its recommendations when approved gave us the present organization. Having had to do with this reorganization, it might seem that I had planned a job for myself, but I hasten to defend both the committee of selection and myself by recording that they tried hard to find someone else and appealed to me only as a second or perhaps third choice. I must admit that this personal account of relations with the affairs of the Association does not represent the average member's experience. But if you will reflect upon it, as I have from time to time, it does give an executive secretary and managing editor some guidance not only from day to day but in reporting to a membership that is almost double what it was a dozen years ago.

The most vivid and interesting report that I could render would be a wire recording of a day or a week in the Washington office. Unfortunately, neither my office or the Black Hole of Calcutta, alias the smoking room in the Annex to the Library of Congress, is equipped to do this. One conviction such a record would bring to all members is the wisdom of the return to Washington as a base of operation. In no other place could your central office perform as many services to members or to public and private agencies. The importance of the Association with its nation-wide personnel is recognized by the calls from governmental or other agencies for aid or counsel or to furnish rosters of specialized persons. To be at the end of a telephone in Washington may have its disadvantages but they are very few from the standpoint of the Association and the advantages are many. Even if we should sometime face finding rented quarters in a crowded capital, it would be money well spent to remain there. The steady inflow of articles and books from foreign as well as domestic sources is a tribute to the Review as something more than a national periodical.

These indications of the Association's national standing and service, even without details, are things the members should know. From the history of the past any responsible officer should be constantly aware that despite necessary centralization there must be as wide a distribution of member participation as possible. This is best done through membership in our many committees with a rotation that will keep the benefit of experience available in some part of all committees. It means that the Review should be constantly alert in the selection of articles, books to review, and competent reviewers to judge them. Speaking broadly, it means that young men and women should be encouraged in their special interests. If they try more than their maturity warrants, they should be given such criticism as will not discourage those who have shown some ability. In the matter of reviewers, I took it as a compliment when a veteran member said, "I don't recognize the names of a goodly number of the reviewers today." I did not tell him that I did not either, for in a single issue I would be hard put to it to recall the source of the decision to assign a review to a hitherto untried reviewer. The reasons for nonassignment to a logical reviewer are often more compelling than those for assignment—the chief of which is usually found in the author's acknowledgments to those who have advised him or read parts of the manuscript. I recall also a remark to me by Professor Turner. He said, "I don't know about the meetings of this Association where you meet and make friends with scholars whose books you may be asked to review. When I was a young man," he went on, "I reviewed Schouler's History of the United States. I met him at the next meeting and he was such a nice old man that I doubt if I could have written that review after knowing him."

In concluding these reflections on what a member might want to know about the central office, I would recall that in the election by the whole membership of the two controlling bodies of the Association, the Council and the nominating committee, and the reserved right of nomination by petition, you as members have the power to direct its affairs. If you do not vote, you are abdicating that right. The elected officers, as representatives of the Association, serve it that in turn it may serve truth-seeking in teaching and writing history. That is a high calling in which the humblest among us shares responsibility with the highest.

First among the details the membership should know is an assurance that the finances are on a sound basis. The treasurer's report which I commend to your attention gives assurance that we are in the black. We are relieved of any more payments following the $15,000 contributed to the Library of Congress during the last 2 years for the preparation of the Writings on American History. Against some increases in normal items in income must be set off decreased profits from the Review due to higher printing costs, and this increase runs into all items in other office expenditures. Effective at once the Council has made modest increases for my four assistants who face increased costs of living and the temptations of government salaries in Washington for like services. I want to record my appreciation for their loyalty and efficiency. If the lady members of the Association ever feel their sex does not have enough to do with running its affairs, they forget that four of them are keeping the Association going and doing it with the cooperation of one mere man who learned his limitations a long time ago.

Mention of the Writings on American History leads me to report first on the National Historical Publications Commission set up by Congress on the initiative of the President. This Association is represented, by Council election, by Julian Boyd and Guy Stanton Ford. Professor Richard Shryock is one of the two presidential appointments. Dr. S. J. Buck represents the Librarian of Congress, Dr. Rudolph A. Winnacker, the Department of Defense. Mr. Philip Hamer is director and Wayne Grover, the Archivist of the United States, is chairman. Other departments, the Supreme Court, and both House and Senate have representatives. In a preliminary report to the President it has named 66 representative Americans whose papers should be published and will add to the list. Five were especially singled out: Franklin, Hamilton, Madison, John Adams, and John Q. Adams. It is not the intent of the Commission to undertake such publication itself or ask Congress for supporting contributions. It hopes to explore and encourage such publication by appropriate private and public institutions. For instance, the Lincoln and Jefferson projects were under way before the Commission was set up and the publication of the papers of Andrew Carnegie has recently been underwritten. The Commission at its last meeting approved as its own responsibility the continuation of the preparation of the manuscript of the Writings on American History on the condition that the Association carry the costs of publication from its share in the Smithsonian appropriation and that its Committee on the Annual Report act as an advisory committee. Few things that have happened this year can give scholars in the field of American history more satisfaction than this assured future for a bibliography that has led a precarious but honorable life since 1902. Its new status may lead to some modifications in the terms on which it is distributed. If it does, the news will be carried in the Review.

The Commission also has under favorable consideration two long-neglected documentary projects. The first would cover the debates and talks on the ratification of the Constitution and the first 10 amendments. The second would give us from all possible sources the accomplishments of the First Federal Congress.

At the head of the usual items of an officer who combines the duties of executive secretary and managing editor are properly membership and the Review. Our membership shop on December 15 was 5,958.

Volume LVI of the Review, from October 1950 to July 1951 contained 1075 pages, only two more than the preceding volume. The usual 12 articles were distributed by fields, 1 on the purpose of history (the presidential address), 5 in American history, 1 in medieval, and 5 in European. Of the notes and suggestions, four were in American history and two in European. There were exactly the same number of long reviews as in Volume LV, 233, and a few more short reviews. Ninety-five articles were submitted as against 103 in 1950. Sixty-six were returned. A few are under consideration or subject to revision. As editor, I am grateful to the busy scholars who have served as critics and referees of articles that seemed to have a reasonable possibility of consideration.

The Committee on the Annual Report through its chairman, Philip Hamer, says that the present funds from the Smithsonian will provide only for the thin volume of the official report and one volume of the Writings on American History. The volume of proceedings for 1950 is off the press and will be distributed soon. All galley and some page proof for the Writings of 1948 has been received and the volume will come out within a few months. Copy for 1949 is ready and half of the work on 1950 is done. It is plain that the work of Dr. Masterson is piling up copy faster than the funds for publication accumulate. The consolidated index for 1902 to 1940 undertaken by the late David Matteson is revised from A through K and work is proceeding on the rest of the alphabet. These two volumes will be expensive to print and, unless additional funds are found, will have to find a place in a schedule already crowded by the volumes of the Writings now in preparation.

The following committees making awards have been inactive this year due to the fact that this is the off year for granting some of the prizes. This applies to the John H. Dunning Prize and the Herbert Baxter Adams Prize. The George Louis Beer Prize and the Beveridge Fellowship committees report that they did not find any of the work submitted of sufficient merit to warrant an award. The Beveridge Committee does record honorable mention to Dr. Robert W. Twyman for his manuscript "History of Marshall Field and Company, 1865-1906." Dr. Twyman is, at present, an assistant professor at Bowling Green State University, Ohio. The committee on the Carnegie Revolving Fund has been gratified to receive more manuscripts than usual and the selection of a manuscript will be announced this evening. (See committee report, p. 36.) The Committee on Honorary Members received news of the death of Dr. Altamira too late to nominate someone to fill this vacancy and bring the quota up to the full 15. The recipients of the Watumull and Schuyler prizes will be announced this evening. (See committee reports, p. 32.) The Littleton-Griswold Committee, which is this year losing its efficient chairman for the last 6 years, Professor R. B. Morris of Columbia, reports progress on the preparation of three volumes which were reported last year as in the process of preparation; namely, (1) the Prince George's County Court book of Maryland, (2) the Rhode Island Equity Court volume, and (3) the records of New Jersey Quarter Sessions courts for the Revolutionary period.

Social Education, on whose editorial board this Association is represented and whose funds are dispensed through our office, has had a reasonably successful year, both in finances and in the quality of the articles that have been available. Our elected representative on their board, Professor Destler, is retiring after a number of years of faithful service. As his successor, the Council has chosen Professor Robert Riegel of Dartmouth. Your Executive Secretary is, ex officio, the other member of the board.

The Committee on Government Publications will later present in the form of resolutions some of the results of its deliberations.

The chairman of the Committee on Documentary Reproduction reports that his committee is concentrating its attention on two matters this year. First is the development of the joint American Historical Association-Library of Congress program of microfilming. To forward this, they have supported the application for Fulbright scholarships of several competent scholars who could survey archives and microfilming programs. They have received reports of work already done by Fulbright research scholars working along the lines of the committee's interests from Professor Howard Rice, who has submitted a checklist of unpublished portions of inventories and bibliographical materials in the French archives and in certain French ministries, from Professor A. P. Nasatir, who has been doing microfilming for the Bancroft Library and the Library of Congress (for the latter, he has covered the French consular reports before 1792), and from Professor Robert L. Reynolds, who has submitted a checklist of manuscripts and of microfilm material prepared for the Library of Congress from the Genoese Notarial "cartularies" of the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. From Professor Peter Topping, there was a report of progress in preparing a bibliography of manuscripts in Greek archives relating to the Greek Revolution and the history of Greece since 1830. Other promising projects are, for the moment, without the necessary support but will not be abandoned. The second great interest of this committee is represented by the micro-print publication of the nineteenth-century British House of Commons Sessional Papers. As of October, 1951, they have reproduced 2,000,000 pages or about half of what is to be covered. Subscribers have now received microfilms of the papers for the years 1820-64. The committee has under consideration the possibility of extending this project backward into the eighteenth century and possibly forward into the twentieth. The full report on all these items will appear in the printed volume of the Annual Report. The committee still profits by the devotion and energy of its chairman, Professor Edgar L. Erickson of Illinois.

Professor Donald C. McKay of Harvard, who is our representative to the International Committee of the Historical Sciences, reports that a reasonably successful international meeting was held in Paris this last summer. It was clear that further consideration should be given to the arrangements and program of future congresses in order that they might be more rewarding. It will be the responsibility of the national committees and of the American Historical Association as the committee for the United States to submit suggestions for such improvements. Your Executive Secretary will write later to all of those whose names he has as present at the meeting and ask for their comment. He would be glad to have the names of any of our members who attended the Paris meeting. From these comments a consolidated report will be made in mid-June, 1952, in Brussels to a joint meeting of the executive committee and of the general assembly of the International Committee. The result of their deliberations on the above matters will be made available to the Italian committee which is in charge of the forthcoming conference in Rome, 1955. The International Bibliography has now appeared in the eighteenth volume. It is expected that the president of the Commission will present a report on the future form of this bibliography. Dr. S. J. Buck is our representative on the special committee on bibliography and has already submitted some very constructive suggestions. One item from the minutes of the meeting of the executive committee in Stockholm in June of 1951 may be of interest to our members. There has been created in the National Archives in Paris a service which keeps track of all research being carried on by French and foreign scholars in all the archives of France. This is an exceedingly useful service. Our representative at this Stockholm meeting was Professor Samuel E. Morison, substituting for Professor Donald McKay.

Professor Roy F. Nichols reports for the Social Science Research Council as our representative and the present chairman of that Council. All three of our representatives, Messrs. Clough, Ellis, and Nichols, have been active in the major committees of the Council. Its Committee on Historiography, headed by Professor Ralph Turner of Yale, will soon bring out a report on the intellectual relationship between history and the other social sciences. The Council is continuing its system of research fellowships and grants-in-aid and in area-training fellowships. A number of members of this Association have been beneficiaries of this program. Census bureau studies pursued jointly with the Council will probably result in monographs of interest to historians. Absence from the country has brought about the resignation from our panel of Messrs. Clough and Ellis.

Professor Strayer reports for the American Council of Learned Societies that that organization is pursuing activities mentioned in earlier reports and has developed new activities. One of these is a series of conferences on the relation between science and the humanities and on law as a field for humanistic study. The Russian translation project will issue two additional volumes soon. The Review has already carried a note on the joint publication with the Social Science Research Council of the Current Digest of the Soviet Press. The list of subscribers to this publication is growing rapidly. The fellowship program that was recently expanded provides part-time release of faculty members for study in fields other than those the recipient normally follows in teaching and research. Young scholars cut off in their careers by economy measures due to decreased enrollments have received grants enabling them to pursue their studies and develop their skills. In time, as the costs of publishing mount, the membership of this Association and all scholars are going to be increasingly grateful for the studies being made by Mr. Henry Silver of the staff of A. C. L. S. of methods of publication other than letter press.

It is a matter deserving a word of comment that the last two reports bring to the attention of the members of the Association opportunities through fellowships and grants-in-aid to pursue research and writing. When you add to these two reports the Fulbright and Guggenheim fellowships and other support programs noted from time to time in the Review the outlook for productive scholarship is not so bleak as it is sometimes pictured. Fifty years ago, the old Review of Reviews published an article on the four leading living American historians. They were, as I recall, James Ford Rhodes, Henry C. Lea, Henry Adams, and Alfred T. Mahan. The article emphasized the fact that all four were not members of any university staff. What I would point out is that three were men of independent means who could hire assistants and copyists and the fourth was in a position where he had time and free access to his sources. Today, I know only one historian engaged in a large historical enterprise who has similar advantages. Today historical writing that will stand the test of scholarship is almost solely dependent upon the efforts of men on academic staffs. Neither salaries or sales give large rewards. A recent listing of the chief books in the last 50 years selected, of course, largely on a sales basis contained only five titles that by the most liberal interpretation could be called history. Historical studies, large or small, must be planned and pursued in the future by university men, Universities and learned institutions and foundations are becoming aware of this responsibility not only in the case of history but in all the humanities. Young scholars can undertake the planning of larger writing projects with some hope that when they have given evidence of their purpose and ability support will be forthcoming. In the meantime, it would not be hard to find today examples of older men who are pursuing to successful completion major works of significance in the field of biography and history. Not one of those I have in mind has been turned aside from his task by more remunerative forms of publishing. By husbanding their time and resources with minor aid from their universities and some grants-in-aid, they are doing work as definitive as any history writing can be. To all interested in history this is as encouraging as any detailed report about the affairs of your Association.

This concludes the formal report of your Executive Secretary and Managing Editor with one exception. On your behalf, he acknowledges with gratitude the devoted labors of all the committees whose work he has so inadequately summarized. There is due a special word of commendation to the chairmen upon whom always and in any committee the heaviest responsibilities fall. The labors of two committees, that on program, headed by Professor William H. Dunham of Yale, and on local arrangements, headed by Professor Henry F. Graff of Columbia, are making their own report by giving the Association another rewarding annual meeting.

GUY STANTON FORD, Executive Secretary.

Annual Report of the Treasurer

FOR THE FISCAL YEAR 1950-51

The financial assets of the American Historical Association on August 31, 1951, amounted to $479,704.46 ($402,504.34 last year). Of that sum, $414,799.99 ($349,207.55 last year) constitute the capital funds of the Association, which are in the custody of the Fiduciary Trust Co. of New York and are managed by it under the direction of the Board of Trustees. Of that amount $209,954.66 ($191,659.75 last year) are credited to various special funds, leaving $204,845.33 ($157,547.80 last year) the income from which is unrestricted. The cash on hand in checking and savings accounts amounts to $64,904.47 ($53,296.79 last year) of which sum $48,995.70 ($44,699.15 last year) is restricted, leaving $15,908.77 ($8,597.64 last year) available for general purposes. The total of unrestricted funds, including both capital and expendable sums, amounted to $220,754.10 ($166,145.44 last year); and that of restricted funds amounted to $258,950.36 ($236,358.90 last year).

The increase in the value of restricted invested funds of the Association has come mainly from additional securities valued at $14,505.50 received from the estate of David M. Matteson. These securities are held in a special fund known as the David M. Matteson Fund which now totals $65,834.66 but is expected to be further increased. The unrestricted invested funds have been increased by $47,297.53 through exchange in securities and additional investments from the general funds of the Association.

The expendable funds of the Association are administered through a general account, four special accounts, and one operating account. The general account includes, however, a number of special funds and grants, which are segregated from the unrestricted funds only by bookkeeping. The balances in this account are kept partly in a savings account and partly in a checking account, and transfers are made from one to the other as occasion arises. The balances in the special accounts are separately deposited in savings accounts. The operating account is not administered by the Treasurer, but the funds for it are supplied from one of the special accounts and, as a rule, its receipts are transmitted to the Treasurer for deposit in the appropriate account.

The following tables present a condensed exhibit of the financial transactions of the Association during the year. The statement for the general fund is broken down into unrestricted funds and the various special funds and grants, and for the unrestricted funds the items for 1949-50 are included for purposes of comparison. Statements for the special accounts and the operating account follow, and there are a number of summaries. The receipts of unrestricted funds exceeded disbursements by $7,311.13. This sum includes, however, $2,569.94 transferred from the special account "Americana for College Libraries" for investment but not yet invested. Deducting that sum leaves an actual surplus of $4,741.19.

The Treasurer's accounts have been audited by F. W. Lafrentz & Co., certified public accountants, and their report is on file in the Washington office of the Association, where it may be examined by any interested member. The operating account of Social Education has been audited by Paul O. Carr and Eber W. Jeffery, and the report of this audit is also on file and available for inspection in the Washington office.

The report of the Board of Trustees for the fiscal year ending August 31, 1951, which was submitted by W. Randolph Burgess, chairman of the Board, is also on file and available for inspection in the Washington office.

SOLON J. BUCK, Treasurer.

The holdings of the American Historical Association as of August 31, 1951, compare with its holdings of August 31, 1950, as follows:

| | Value of principal | Income | | Value of principal | Income |
|--------------------|--------------------|----------|--------------------|--------------------|------------|
| REGULAR SECTION | | | MATTESSON FUND | | |
| Aug. 31, 1950..... | $303,667.80 | $11,947 | Aug. 31, 1950..... | $47,539.75 | $1,120.00 |
| Aug. 31, 1951..... | 348,965.33 | 15,251 | Aug. 31, 1951..... | 65,534.66 | 3,410.00 |

As will be noted from the foregoing figures, the market value of the securities held in the Regular Section for the Association increased from a total of $303,667.80 on August 31, 1950, an increase of about 5.03 percent. This increase reflects conditions general in the securities markets for the respective dates. The income basis, figured as of the same two dates, increased from $11,947 to $15,251, an increase of about 27.7 percent. During the year changes in securities for the Matteson Fund together with additional securities received from the Matteson estate increased that fund from $47,539.75 to $65,834.66. The income was $3,410 as against $1,120 of a year ago. It should be noted, however, that the $1,120 represented income for only part of the fiscal period 1950-51.

In accord with accepted principles, the Trustees have given instructions to the Fiduciary Trust Co. to set aside out of each year's income such an amount as is applicable for that year toward the amortization of the premiums on bonds purchased above the redemption price. The charge upon income on this account for the fiscal year for the Regular Section was $297.12 and for the Matteson Fund $11.29.

During the fiscal year, the Trustees received from the Association for investment $800.00.

Charges made by the Fiduciary Trust Co. for the management of securities amounted during the fiscal year to $1,518 for the Regular Section and $238 for the Matteson Fund. The brokerage charges on purchases and sales amounted to $390.45 for the Regular Section and $156.62 for the Matteson fund. The Board of Trustees incurred no other expenses.

Very truly yours,

FOR THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE
AMERICAN HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION,
W. RANDOLPH BURGESS, Chairman.

COMMITTEE REPORTS FOR 1951

THE NOMINATING COMMITTEE

As a result of the ballots cast, the chairman of the nominating committee announces that E. C. Kirkland and Sidney Painter were elected to the Council and that T. C. Cochran and C. Crane Brinton were elected to the nominating committee.

For the presidency of the Association for the year 1952, the committee nominates James G. Randall; for the vice presidency, it nominates Louis R. Gottschalk; for the office of treasurer, it nominates Solon J. Buck.

DECEMBER 19, 1951.

LOUISE FARGO BROWN, Chairman.

THE COMMITTEE ON HONORARY MEMBERS

Since the quota of 15 honorary members is full, so far as we know, the committee makes no recommendations for further elections.

NOVEMBER 10, 1951.

BERNADOTTE E. SCHMITT, Chairman.

THE COMMITTEE ON THE HERBERT BAXTER ADAMS PRIZE

As the Herbert Baxter Adams prize is awarded every other year, the committee has been completely inactive this year.

OCTOBER 18, 1951.

SIDNEY PAINTER, Chairman.

THE COMMITTEE ON THE GEORGE LOUIS BEER PRIZE

The committee recommends with regret that the prize be not awarded this year. Nine published works and one manuscript were submitted in competition for the prize. The majority of these failed to meet the requirement that the work be on a phase of European international history since 1895. The committee did not solicit books from publishers.

DECEMBER 27, 1951.

HOWARD M. EHRMANN, Chairman.

THE COMMITTEE ON THE JOHN H. DUNNING PRIZE

The committee has received and replied to inquiries concerning the Dunning Prize, but otherwise has been inactive since no award is to be made until the 1952 meeting of the Association.

OCTOBER 29, 1951.

LAWRENCE A. HARPER, Chairman.

THE COMMITTEE ON THE ROBERT LIVINGSTON SCHUYLER PRIZE

Books submitted in competition for this prize were received from the California, Harvard, Minnesota, Princeton, Stanford, Wisconsin and Yale university presses and the press of Michigan State College. The committee decided by unanimous vote that the Robert Livingston Schuyler Prize for 1951 should be awarded to Professor Howard Robinson of Oberlin College for his book entitled The British Post Office, A History, published by the Princeton University Press, and that honorable mention should be given to Professor Ralph William Hidy of New York University for his The House of Baring in American Trade and Finance, English Merchant Bankers at Work, 1763-1861, Harvard University Press.

NOVEMBER 2, 1951.

PAUL KNAFLAND, Chairman.

THE COMMITTEE ON THE WATUMULL PRIZE

The committee reports that nine books were submitted for the Watumull prize competition. After careful examination of the books considered, the committee recommends that the Watumull prize for 1951 be divided between Mr. Louis Fischer for his The Life of Mahatma Gandhi published by Harper & Brothers and Professor T. Walter Wallbank of the University of Southern California for his India in the New Era published by Scott, Foresman & Company.

TARAKNATH DAS, Chairman.

THE COMMITTEE ON THE PUBLICATION OF THE Annual Report

This committee, which held one formal meeting during the year, has continued to be of the opinion that priority in the use of funds available for printing the Annual Report of the American Historical Association should be given first to printing a small volume of the Proceedings of the Association each year and secondly to printing the Writings on American History. Funds available during the past few years have not been in excess of what is needed to pay for these two compilations, and the committee has not been able, therefore, to make available in recent Annual Reports documentary and other materials of the character printed in earlier years. The sum currently budgeted by the Smithsonian Institution for printing the Annual Report is not sufficient, because of greatly increased printing costs in recent years, to pay for as many pages annually as in the years before World War II. The committee suggests that discussions be held with appropriate officials of the Smithsonian Institution with a view to obtaining annually an allocation sufficient to make possible the printing of an Annual Report of about the same average size as in pre-war years.

During the past year Volume I of the Annual Report for 1949, consisting of Proceedings and List of Members, was received from the Government Printing Office and distributed to members. Volume I for 1950, comprising the Proceedings for that year, is off the press and is expected to be distributed early in 1952. All galley proofs and some of the page proofs for the Writings on American History, 1948, has been received and the completed volume is expected to be ready for distribution within a few months. All copy, including index, for the volume of Writings for 1949 is ready to go to press, and about half of the work of compiling the Writings for 1950 has been done. The work of finishing and preparing for the press the cumulative index to the Writings for the period 1902–40, compiled chiefly by the late David M. Matteson, is nearing completion; and the index is expected to be published in two volumes as parts of the Association's Annual Report.

PHILIP M. HAMER, Chairman.

THE COMMITTEE ON THE ALBERT J. BEVERIDGE MEMORIAL FUND

This report covers the period from the closing date of the preceding annual report, November 4, 1950, to November 1, 1951.

The committee held one meeting during this period (October 10, 1951, in Philadelphia). Its personnel remained the same as in 1950, to wit: Philip Davidson, University of Louisville; Dorothy Burne Goebel, Hunter College; Henrietta Larson, Harvard University; C. Vann Woodward, Johns Hopkins University; and Arthur P. Whitaker, Chairman, University of Pennsylvania.

The 1950 Fellowship was awarded to Reynold M. Wik for the completion of his manuscript, "Steam Power on the American Farm: A Chapter on Agricultural History, 1850–1920."

Upon the expiration in December 1950 of the 5-year experimental period for which the Fellowship plan was established, the committee submitted a report to the Council of the Association reviewing the operation of the plan during this period and recommending that it be continued, with certain minor alterations, on a permanent basis. This recommendation was adopted by the Council at its meeting on December 27, 1950.

The number of manuscripts submitted in the 1951 competition was 12, as compared with 11 in 1948, 10 in 1949, and 14 in 1950. The committee decided not to award the Fellowship this year. While there were some very creditable manuscripts among the 12 submitted, we did not feel that any of them measured up to the standard of previous years, which we would like to maintain. Honorable mention was awarded to Dr. Robert W. Twyman, assistant professor at Bowling Green State University, for his manuscript, "History of Marshall Field and Company, 1865–1906."

The only volume scheduled for publication in 1951 is Neil A. McNall's "An Agricultural History of the Genesee Valley, 1790–1860" (honorable mention, 1949), which at the present writing has reached the index state and is expected to appear about December 1, 1951.

Of the other two manuscripts already accepted for publication, Reynold M. Wik's "Steam Power on the American Farm," (Fellowship, 1950), was delivered to the publisher in August 1951, and will be published early in 1952; and Glyndon G. Van Deusen's "A Life of Horace Greeley" (Fellowship, 1949), is now scheduled for completion in December 1952, Professor Van Deusen having been granted an extension of one year in order to permit him to serve as Fulbright professor in New Zealand in 1950–51.

The University of Pennsylvania Press continues to publish the Beveridge series under a new and more favorable contract negotiated early in 1951.

The condition of the Albert J. Beveridge Memorial Fund is shown by the attached report of the treasurer of the Association for the year from September 1, 1950, to August 31, 1951.

The fact that the Fund has a principal of $100,000 is reflected in the item "Interest-Investments, $3,500." As usual, this was again the largest single item of income.

Income from royalties ($2,235.51) was somewhat above the average for recent years, mainly because two of the recently published volumes had a very respectable sale (Bestor, Backwoods Utopias, 924 copies, and Hanke, The Struggle for Justice in the Spanish Conquest of America, 872 copies).

The amount of the cash balance at the end of the fiscal year $22,519.89, may seem unduly large; but it should be pointed out that a considerable part of this balance will have to be used in paying (1) the cost of publication of the three manuscripts already contracted for (those by McNall, Wik, and Van Deusen, mentioned above), and (2) the second half ($750) of the Fellowship award for 1950. It is difficult to predict what the first of these two items will come to, both because of the uncertainty regarding future publication costs in general and also because of the additional uncertainty in this particular case arising from the fact that these three manuscripts will be the first published under the new contract mentioned above. Nevertheless, $5,000 would seem to be a generous estimate for this item, which together with the $750 for the second item, brings the combined total of outstanding commitments to nearly $6,000. Deducting this from the apparent cash balance of about $22,500, we have remaining an actual or uncommitted cash balance of about $16,500. It would seem prudent to maintain the cash balance at about that figure.

In view of the fact that the Beveridge Fellowship plan has been placed on a permanent footing, the committee's thoughts for the coming year have been directed towards making the plan more attractive, particularly to established scholars, and more useful to the profession at large. To this end it has drawn up certain proposals for consideration by the Council in December 1951, and by the new committee next year. It has not recommended the immediate adoption of these proposals, partly because it is unanimously agreed that the time has come for changes in its personnel, three of its five members having now completed 6 years of service on it.

One of these three is the present chairman, who takes this last opportunity to offer his sincerest thanks to the other members for the generous and unstinted help that they given him at all times in carrying on the really arduous work of this committee. He is particularly grateful to Professor Dorothy Burne Goebel for her efficient handling of its business, as acting chairman, during his absence in Germany from May to September 1951. He also takes great pleasure in making a final acknowledgment to the Executive Secretary of the Association for never-failing sympathy, support, and wise counsel during the 6-year chairmanship now coming to a close.

THE COMMITTEE ON THE CARNEGIE REVOLVING FUND FOR PUBLICATIONS

The manuscript selected in 1949 for sponsorship by the Carnegie Revolving Fund for Publications, Robert S. Hoyt, The Royal Demesne in English Constitutional History, 1066-1272, was published by the Cornell University Press in December 1950. The committee's selection for the year 1950, Miles Mark Fisher, Negro Slave Songs in the United States, is at present in the hands of the Cornell University Press, and will be published early in 1952. After careful consideration of the manuscripts submitted this year, the committee selected for publication the manuscript by Professor Catherine E. Boyd of Carleton College, "The Ecclesiastical Tithe in Medieval Italy."

The committee has been increasingly concerned in recent years with the small number of manuscripts submitted and with the substandard quality of a portion of those manuscripts. After an extensive discussion of the problem, the members agreed to take two steps designed to publicize the opportunity for publication afforded by the fund it administers. In March 1951, two letters for this purpose were circulated. One was sent to the chairmen of history departments in 175 universities and colleges throughout the United States. The other was addressed to the directors of the 40 university presses that form the Association of American University Presses. The latter requested directors to call the functioning of the committee to the attention of authors of exceptional historical manuscripts.

The results of these promotional efforts were highly gratifying. The number of inquiries received was large, while 11 manuscripts were submitted this year in contrast with the 4 or 5 submitted in past years. Moreover, there has been a marked improvement in quality. In view of this successful effort, the committee feels that similar letters should be circulated every 3 or 4 years.

THE COMMITTEE ON THE LITTLETON-GRIEWOLD FUND

While no volumes were published during the current year, considerable progress was made in the transcribing of records. The three projects closest to publication are (1) the Prince George's County Court book of Maryland; (2) the Rhode Island Equity Court volume; and (3) the records of New Jersey Quarter Sessions courts for the Revolutionary period. In all three cases the transcription has been completed, but further editing is required. In the case of the Prince George's volume, toward the publication of which the sum of $2,500 was advanced the committee several years ago by the State of Maryland, an historical introduction has been prepared by Dr. Philip Crowl. Arrangements are now being made to secure a qualified person to reduce the transcription in size and to provide a legal introduction. The legal introduction to the Rhode Island Equity volume has been prepared by Professor Zechariah Chafee, who is now engaged in making the final selection of materials to be included in the text. In addition, the transcript of the North Carolina General Court records, 1693-1727, has been completed. However, before this project will be ready for publication it will be necessary to study the file papers and to prepare the historical and legal introductions.

THE COMMITTEE ON GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS

As "time marches on" the work of this committee grows increasingly important and more difficult, for American publication needs and programs move in inverse ratios. As our national and international problems become more complex, the area of understanding seems to narrow, instead of widen. Thus, our predicament, as described in the 1945 Report of the Committee on Government Publications, looms forth with yet more serious import in 1951. Six years ago this committee warned: "It is painfully clear that the public stands very much in need of the more adequate understanding which could result from such a [purposeful publication] program; otherwise it will not be possible to substitute broad enlightenment for the suspicion and strife now threatening national as well as international welfare." Today, this is even more true; the reason is not far to seek. It seems more wholesome to state it bluntly than to sugar it over.

The fact is, that if disinterested historical work is to survive, historians cannot forever maintain a lack of interest in the means for that survival. The primary obligation of historians, surely, is to foster the sense of time, so that impatience toward today's problems may be tempered by a modicum of understanding of that past from which grew the present.

Such an understanding of course requires a dual publication policy, intelligently adapted: (a) a stream of erudite publications equipping professional historians to present the historical background adequately to students; (b) a stream of popular publications arresting attention and challenging the personal interest of the mass of reading voters (the nonreading voters are desperately in need of "spoken publications" illuminating the background of current needs).

No government agency has succeeded in doing these jobs in a manner fully to meet the need, for the historians have not moved the electorate to clamor for the service through their congressmen. Historians, in other words, for the most part share the faults of nonhistorians; they lack a sufficient sense of responsibility for public interest in the truth. They fear to protest outrage of history, with the result that documentation and documenter are traduced the more openly and unrestrainedly for political purposes. The few who do protest have their views ignored. This is shameful treatment.

The members of your committee stoutly strove to impress the appropriate powers with the importance of continuing and indeed reinforcing the two streams of government publications. But these endeavors could scarcely be well-rewarded where they were confronted by skepticism as to the usefulness of historical knowledge and as to the patriotism of the purveyors of it.

"Bloody but unbowed" the committee re-enters the fray, venturing to request the American Historical Association to endorse resolutions in a minimum of three publication fields: those of the State Department, of the National Historical Publications Commission, and of the Territorial Papers. (See minutes of the business meeting, p. 7.)

THE COMMITTEE ON DOCUMENTARY REPRODUCTION

During the past year the committee has concentrated its attention on, first, the development of the joint American Historical Association-Library of Congress program to microfilm selected historical source materials in countries where the Fulbright educational program is in effect; and, secondly, on the microprint publication of the British House of Commons Sessional Papers for the 19th century.

I. The activities of the committee in connection with the Fulbright program may be divided into (a) applications sponsored jointly by the committee and the Library of Congress for the year 1952-53; (b) jointly sponsored research scholars who have received appointments for the present year 1951-52; (c) reports on accomplishments of Fulbright research scholars that will be of value to American scholars, and (d) reports of activities of the special country committees.

(a) The following applications for Fulbright scholarships have been jointly endorsed for 1952-53: (1) Professor Howard C. Payne, nominated by the special committee for France to survey and film selected materials on administrative institutions during the Second Empire, 1852-70; (2) Mr. Edgar B. Wickberg, M. A., to survey the Philippine archives with the view to microfilming selected materials related to early Japanese-Spanish relations; (3) Professor Francis Benjamin, nominated by the special committee on Italy to microfilm manuscripts on medieval astronomy in the Vatican and to microfilm unpublished catalogs of manuscripts there as well.

(b) The following jointly sponsored Fulbright research scholars are abroad this year, 1951-52: (1) Professor George B. Fowler, nominated by the medieval special committee for Austria, to microfilm unpublished catalogs of medieval manuscripts in as many as possible of the some forty Austrian monasteries; (2) Professor Hilmar C. Krueger, nominated by the special committee for Italy to microfilm medieval Genoese Notarial "Cartularies" at the Archivio Di Stato, Genoa, Italy.

(c) The following jointly sponsored Fulbright research scholars have submitted reports of work that will be of interest and value to their colleagues: (1) Through the special committee for France Professor Howard C. Rice, Jr., submits a checklist of unpublished portions of the Inventaires of the Section moderne of the Archives Nationales, and the Inventaires of the ministries of Foreign Affairs, Colonies, and Navy now deposited in the Archives Nationales, Paris, France, together with an introductory note on the use of the Inventaires. For the report, see appendix A. (2) Through the same committee, Professor A. P. Nasatir has submitted a brief statement of the manuscripts he has microfilmed for the Bancroft Library and for the Library of Congress: for the former, the materials related to the California gold rush period, a documentary biography of Patrice Dillon, documents related to filibustering activities in Mexico from California; and for the latter the French consular reports before 1792. For the report in full, see appendix B. (3) Through the special committee for Italy, Professor Robert L. Reynolds has submitted a checklist of manuscripts, together with an introductory note explaining how the list is to be used, microfilmed for the Library of Congress and the University of Wisconsin from the Genoese Notarial "Cartularies" of the twelfth and thirteenth centuries at the Archivio Di Stato, Genoa, Italy. For the full report, see appendix C. (4) Through the special committee for Greece, Professor Peter Topping reports the progress made in preparing a bibliography of manuscripts in Greek archives related to the Greek revolution and the history of Greece since 1830. For the report in full, see appendix D. (5) Parties interested in obtaining positive microfilm copies of any of the above materials may purchase them from the agency holding the master negative, which in most cases is the Library of Congress, at the usual price for positive duplications. (6) The committee has effected an arrangement with The American Archivist whereby the Fulbright research scholars sponsored by the committee and the Library of Congress will pass along to their colleagues helpful information bearing on the use of foreign archives. Professor Howard C. Rice, Jr., has initiated the series in the April 1951 issue.

(d) Developments among the special country committees in some instances have occurred as follows: (1) Professor Richard W. Hale, Jr., chairman of the special committee for France, reports that preliminary coordination with the Library of Congress has been effected for a program to microfilm not only Americana and bibliographical control media but French legal materials as well. (2) Professor Loren C. MacKinney is now chairman of the special committee for Italy, and Miss Dorothy Schullian, Curator of Rare Books and Manuscripts at the Cleveland Branch of the Army Medical Library, has been added to the committee. As a long-range plan, the Italian committee is concentrating on getting suitable candidates for developing microfilming activities at the great archival centers such as Milan, Turin, Venice, Florence, and Naples. The work at Genoa is well launched by Professors Reynolds and Krueger.

II. The microprint publication of the nineteenth century British House of Commons Sessional Papers has, as of October 1951, reached the 2,000,000 page or half-way mark. The papers for the years 1820-1864, for the most part, have now been microprinted and distributed to subscribers. The microprint edition of the Sessional Papers may be purchased by nonsubscribers to date from the Readex Microprint Corporation, Chester, Vt., for $6,000. The Graduate Research Board of the University of Illinois is giving significant assistance in the final editing of the microprint edition by assigning to the editor two half-time assistants for the essential work of proofing of the edition.

The committee has had requests to extend the Sessional Papers project to include the twentieth and eighteenth centuries. The advisability of extending the project will be considered along with the plans for a broad program of publication of basic research materials which will be announced later. Any program must be completely self-supporting, for foundations no longer are willing to assist with grants for microcopying programs.

The committee has been in communication with Mr. S. W. Hockey, Director of the Eastern Caribbean Regional Library, Port of Spain, Trinidad, in an advisory capacity with respect to the salvaging of valuable records in the British West Indies.

MICROFILM COPIES OF THE UNPUBLISHED INVENTORIES OF THE ARCHIVES NATIONALES, PARIS, IN THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

Suggestions concerning their use and misuse

HOWARD C. RICE, JR.

The inventaires are the keys to the vast store of documents preserved in the Archives Nationales in Paris. The scholar who has occasion to undertake research there must of necessity learn to use these keys—and at the same time he will be able to use these keys more effectively if he is familiar with the general arrangement and organization of the Archives. In making available to American scholars an extra set of these keys, in the form of microfilm copies of the inventories, it therefore seems appropriate to recapitulate some general notions about the Archives Nationales.

The scholar using these microfilm inventories should have at hand for reference, and as an indispensable guide, the printed volume published by the Direction des Archives de France: Etat des inventaires des Archives Nationales, départementales, communales, et hospitalières au premier janvier 1937 (H. Didier, Paris, 1938). Pages 1–130, 687–690, and 695–696 of this volume provide an inventory of inventories, or checklist of the inventories of the Archives Nationales. A supplement to this Etat, bringing the list up-to-date as of 1950, will be published in the near future. The inventory numbers used as identification numbers at the beginning and end of each of the microfilm copies are those used in this Etat des inventaires. (It will be noted that there is, following the description of each inventory in the Etat, another number printed between square brackets. This is an accession number only, and has not been used on the microfilm copies.) The Etat des inventaires follows the arrangement of the archives themselves, by séries or record-groups, and thus also provides a guide to the Archives.

In addition to this Etat des inventaires, several other published volumes can profitably be consulted by the scholar for a description of the Archives. For example, a convenient bird's-eye view can be obtained from the Etat sommaire par série des documents conservés aux Archives Nationales (Paris, 1891)—although there have been a few small modifications of record-groups since this volume was published. The following volumes are also useful: Ch.-V. Langlois, Les sources de l'histoire de France (Paris, 1891, chap. I, "Archives Nationales"); Charles Schmidt, Les sources de l'histoire de France depuis 1789 aux Archives Nationales (Paris, 1907); and, for the limited period of the French Revolution, the pages (91–135) devoted to the Archives Nationales by Pierre Caron in his Manuel pratique pour l'étude de la Révolution française (nouvelle édition, Paris, 1947). The historian interested in the Archives

Nationales from the point of view of American history will find useful information in J. E. Roy, Rapport sur les archives de France, relatives à l'histoire du Canada (Ottawa, 1911). Material for a guide to the sources of American history in the Archives Nationales has already been gathered, but has unfortunately not yet (1951) been published. This projected guide is presumably to take its place in the series published under the general editorship of Waldo G. Leland (two volumes now available: Guide to Materials for American History in the Libraries and Archives of Paris, volume I, "Libraries", 1932; and volume II, "Archives of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs," 1943). Finally, mention can be made of a small illustrated pamphlet, designed for the general public: Les Archives de France ("La Documentation française illustrée," No. 37, published by the Direction de la Documentation, 14-16 rue Lord-Byron, Paris-8e, 1950). Although this is of an elementary and popularized character, it nevertheless provides some helpful ideas to the person totally unfamiliar with the Archives Nationales.

The person consulting the Etat des inventaires will find that the Archives Nationales are therein described in three sections: "Section ancienne" (archives for the period prior to 1789), "Section moderne" (archives for the period since 1789), and "Secrétariat." These are purely administrative divisions and do not affect the general arrangement of the archives which are treated as a whole for purposes of classification.

The archives are classified by "séries" or record-groups. Each series is designated by one or several capital letters (A, AA, AJ, O, W, ZZ, etc.). Subdivisions within the series (sous-séries) are designed by superscript Arabic or Roman numerals (AJ¹², AF^{IV}, O⁷, AD^{XIX}, etc.). In the case of those portions of the archives of the Ministries of Foreign Affairs, War, Navy and Colonies deposited at Archives Nationales, the letters designating the original series have been retained, so that it is necessary to mention the words "Affaires étrangères", "Guerre", "Marine", and "Colonies" before the serial letter, in order to avoid confusion with the regular series of the Archives Nationales. (For example: "Marine, CC" or "Colonies, F³", which are not the same as the regular series, "CC" or "F³").

Documents are generally arranged in file-boxes called "cartons", which are designated by Arabic numerals. Thus, "F 12 99" means: series F, subdivision 12, box 99. A star or asterisk indicates a "registre" or bound volume. Thus, "F 12 *99", indicating a bound volume, is not the same article as the box of unbound documents just mentioned. In filling out call-slips for materials to be used in the reading-room, it will be sufficient for the reader to request "F 12 99" or "F 12 *99", as the case may be.

The documents contained in a single carton have in many cases been grouped in bundles (liasses), and the separate items (pièces) have also been numbered. In many cases it is therefore possible to describe the exact location of a document within a box: for example, "F 12 99, liasse 3, pièce 8."

Familiarity with this system of designation is necessary in order to interpret properly the inventaires, which are the descriptive lists of the documents contained in the different series. The inventories (sometimes called états or répertoires) fall roughly into two groups: (1) the inventaires numériques or sommaires, and (2) the inventaires analytiques. The numerical inventories merely list the serial numbers of the cartons or registres, with a summary description of the contents and indication of the dates covered. The analytical inventories, on the other hand, carry the descriptive process much farther, indicate numbers of bundles and separate items within a box, and in some cases even summarize each document. As examples of the two types of inventories we have: inventory No. 759 ("Répertoire numérique, AF^{IV} 1-1960 et AF^{IV}* 1-1710"), and inventory No. 750 ("Inventaire analytique des minutes d'arrêtés du Directoire et pièces annexes, AF^{III} 431-637"). The first of these provides only a numerical list of boxes and registers with a general description and dates of the contents, while the second gives a description of each specific document.

Consultation of the inventories is of course but a preliminary step in historical research; the scholar who possesses microfilm copies of these keys may be at some distance from the archives and will presumably not be satisfied until he has examined the records themselves. Nevertheless, careful study of these microfilm inventories should enable him to complete a part of his spade-work at a distance, and thus give him more time for the study of the records when he arrives on the ground for that purpose. The "numerical" inventories will at least enable him to note down the numbers of likely-looking cartons or registres which may be worth investigating. The "analytical" inventories will often give him the substance of specific documents, and may even, now and then, serve in place of the original. In both cases—and this is perhaps one of the greatest services they can render—the inventories will permit him to proceed by elimination: for the inventory often reveals that a promising-sounding series is in fact of little value for the investigation in hand.

In making microfilm copies of its inventories available to American scholars, through special arrangement with the Committee on Documentary Reproduction of the American Historical Association, the Archives Nationales has sought to encourage and facilitate research in its extensive collection of records. It is assumed that scholars using the microfilm inventories at a distance will eventually come to Paris for research, where they will have further guidance and expert counsel from the staff of the Archives Nationales.

The microfilm inventories made during the spring of 1950 under the supervision of the A. H. A. representative in France, Mr. Howard C. Rice, Jr. (Princeton University Library), have been transmitted to the Library of Congress in Washington. The Archives Nationales has given permission to the Library of Congress to supply additional prints from the master negative film to other libraries or research centers in the United States. In granting this permission the Archives Nationales has requested that the names of such libraries be transmitted to it for its own information. A duplicate master negative has been retained by the Archives Nationales, which is thus in a position to supply prints to scholars or libraries in France or other countries.

A numerical list of the microfilm inventories now available is appended below. These cover the "Section Moderne" (beginning with inventory No. 560 and extending through inventory No. 790), and those portions of the archives of the Ministries of Foreign Affairs, Colonies and Navy now deposited at the Archives Nationales (inventories Nos. 459–499). It is hoped that the inventories for the "Section Ancienne", strictly speaking, can be filmed at some time in the near future, thus making available in the United States a complete set of the inventories of the Archives Nationales.

Attention is called to the fact that some of the inventories listed in the Etat des inventaires are printed volumes; these have of course not been microfilmed, as they are presumably already available to scholars in the larger research libraries of the United States. For example, series F and BB are adequately covered for purposes of preliminary research by the printed series: Etat sommaire des versements faits aux Archives Nationales par les Ministères et les Administrations qui en dépendent (4 vols. 1924–47). Other omissions from the microfilm series have been made, after study and consultation, in cases where the manuscript inventories duplicate each other, where their state of incompleteness renders them useless to the uninitiated, or where (as in the case of several card-catalogue indexes) the potential usefulness has appeared out of proportion to the expense involved. The general criterion used has been that of "usefulness for purposes of preliminary research," and it must again be emphasized that the research scholar will always reach a point where he may expect to have recourse to the good offices of the staff of the Archives Nationales.

MICROFILMING IN THE ARCHIVES OF FRANCE FOR THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS AND FOR THE BANCROFT LIBRARY

A. P. NASATIR

I. This is a general report of the work that I accomplished as Fulbright Fellow during the academic year 1950–51 and of the microfilm copy of archival materials in Paris which I sent to the Library of Congress and to the Bancroft Library of the University of California.

My projects were two in number: first, to review the materials in the French archives relating to Louisiana and California; and second, to microfilm the consular records.

Upon my arrival in France I discovered that it would be impossible to microfilm the consular series relating to the United States because the Foreign Office refuses to grant permission for such large bodies of material to be microfilmed. After a great deal of consultation, advice, and diplomacy, I found out that the Foreign Office is willing to permit larger amounts of microfilming of their archival materials if they refer to one subject and under a written contract carrying with it plans for publication. The Bancroft Library under the direction of Dr. George P. Hammond cooperated with me to the fullest extent and did sign a contract with the Foreign Office stipulating a plan for publishing the materials. I negotiated the contract upon the proposition of obtaining materials upon three subjects all merged in one and naturally pertaining to California. The central themes of my investigations were: first, the California Gold Rush period; second, complete documentary biography of Patrice Dillon; and third (as part of the second) the filibustering activities in Mexico from California. It was understood in my negotiations with M. Outrey, the Director of the Archives, and M. De Ribier, the Conservateur, that the broad foundations for my microfilming material would be the consular records. M. De Ribier permitted me full access to the archival material, even to the extent of consulting the personal dossiers of the various French consular agents and officials in California. M. De Ribier was also extremely generous in permitting a wide latitude of materials to be microfilmed. From my experience it seems that the Foreign Office looks unfavorably upon microfilming volumes of documents in their entirety.

During my studies in Paris, I accidentally ran across an unusual find concerning the French in the California Gold Rush which consisted of ten cartons of records of the Société de l'Ingot d'Or, one of the principal companies interested in the California Gold Rush and whose activities resulted in the sending to California of many gold seekers and adventurers who today form a good part of the French population in California. By good fortune I also found the few scattered documents to fill in the full story of the Société and the consular records in other repositories.

I did succeed, however, in obtaining the consular records relating to the United States before 1792.

With regard to Louisiana: I was to fill in some of the more obvious gaps in the Library of Congress. I did fill a few of the gaps, but much that the Library of Congress now has in some of the important series should be entirely done over.

POSITION REPORT AS OF JUNE, 1951, ON REPRODUCTION OF NOTARIAL ARCHIVES, "ARCHIVIO DI STATO," GENOA, ITALY

ROBERT L. REYNOLDS

Thirty years ago Professor Eugene H. Byrne photostated for deposit in the Library of the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisconsin, over a dozen volumes of twelfth to thirteenth century Genoese Notarial "cartularies." Later he photostated a second group of them privately but in 1946-47 arranged that all the photostats should be brought together at Wisconsin, and presented his private collection to that university.

In 1950-51 I received a Fulbright Fellowship, under sponsorship of the American Historical Association's Committee on Documentary Reproduction, for the purpose of microfilming additional volumes. Aid in meeting costs was given by the Law Library (Mr. Keitt) of the Library of Congress. The negative photomicrofilms were delivered to that Library; positive duplicates were deposited with the Administration of the Archivio di Stato, Genoa.

Publication of earlier parts of the Genoese collection started before the war in the F. Patetta-M. Chiaudano series Documenti e Studi per la Storia del Commercio e del Diritto Commercial Italiano. For a quick survey of the present situation with regard to research in notarial materials consult Robert S. Lopez, "The Unexplored Wealth of the Notarial Archives in Pisa and Lucca" in Mélanges . . . Louis Halphen. For a complete description of the twelfth century Genoese notarial cartularies, see, in the Patetta-Chiaudano series, M. Moresco-G. P. Boggetti, Per l'Edizione dei Notai liguri del Secolo XII (Genoa, 1938). Since the war the Patetta-Chiaudano series has been broken off. The Società ligure di Storia Patria has taken up the publication of the earliest notaries; several more volumes will be appearing in the next few years. One notary, Lanfranco, early 1200's, in two volumes, is being printed. Parts of Oberto de Mercato, and all of Guglielmo de Sori are being transcribed for the Società.

For 2 years the staff of the Genoa Archivio have been preparing an internal analysis of each one of the first 150 volumes in the notarial collection. How needful this is can be seen by consulting the work of Professor Boggetti mentioned above. Doctors Arsenio, Costamagna, Giorfé, Piscioneri, and Vistoso-Iona are working on 30 volumes apiece. They plan to attach its analysis to each volume, to create, by cross-indexing each notary's scattered folios, a complete file on his surviving entries by years and volumes, and by a third cross-indexing to prepare for each year in the period 1154—into the later 1300's an analysis of all surviving folios for such year. This work will take a year or so more. After that it is hoped that the rest of the first series of volumes, 20 volumes more, can be similarly treated. After that the Archivio's next great collection of notarial files, running into the sixteenth century, can be worked over.

The three-way analyses for the first 150 volumes will soon become available at least in typescripts in the Genoa Archivio. Then, it is to be hoped, they will be appropriately published in Italy, apart or in some generally available journal. The five scholars, however, generously allowed their working sheets in manuscript to be microfilmed just as they were, in May 1951. They also allowed the appropriate analysis of each volume to be photographed at the beginning of the film made of that volume.

In the year 1950-51 a total of twenty-eight separately bound items were filmed under the auspices of the American Historical Association, one film per bound item. A twenty-ninth roll of film was made which contains a complete "guide" of the collection as far as it is located, in the United States of America, in photostat (at Wisconsin) or in 32-mm. negative film (in the Library of Congress). It also contains the archivists' handwritten working sheets of the "analyses" for the first 150 volumes. One working in the Library of Congress should consult this film first.

The following table is from the index-cards filmed on the 29th film just mentioned.

REPORT FOR THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE FOR GREECE

For the academic year 1950-51 the Committee on Documentary Reproduction was represented in Greece by Peter Topping, Assistant Professor of History, University of California at Santa Barbara. Mr. Topping was the recipient of a Fulbright award to enable him to survey the archival and manuscript collections in Greece and to try to microfilm unpublished catalogs and finding-aids of such collections. Before going abroad he conferred with the Library of Congress specialists about coordinating his projected microcopying activities with its foreign microfilm program.

Mr. Topping made his chief task to become familiar with the holdings of the General State Archives at Athens and with the several provincial archives under its jurisdiction. The General Archives have large quantities of documents relating to the Greek revolution and the history of the Greek kingdom since 1830. No catalog, however, of this material has been prepared, and it is not profitable to microfilm the General Accessions Book. Nor do adequate catalogs exist of the provincial archives (Kerkyra, Samos, Syra, Euboea, Hydra and Spetsai, Rhodes, Patmos, Epirus, and the Turkish archive at Veroia and Thessalonike). Mr. Topping is preparing an article describing the opportunities for research in the Greek archives on the history of the Venetian, Turkish, and modern periods. He will publish a brief description of the history, organization, and operation of the Greek archives in the American Archivist in 1952.

Unfortunately it proved impossible to obtain permission to microfilm the unpublished catalogs of the National Library at Athens. These are the most complete catalogs of their kind in Greece, one describing the holdings of the Manuscripts Division of the Library (covering acquisitions since 1892), and the other cataloging the documents of the Historical Archive of the same division. This Archive is especially rich in documents relating to the participants in the Greek Revolution of 1821.

A Recordak Microfile machine, Model E, was given to the National Library by UNESCO in 1950. The General Archives have no microfilming facilities. The one commercial firm in Athens with such facilities charges excessive rates.

THE AD HOC COMMITTEE ON HISTORIANS AND THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

During the current year the committee has held six meetings. Copies of the minutes of these meetings are on file at the office of the Executive Secretary of the American Historical Association. Dr. Ford participated in person at the November meeting and has in various ways cooperated with the committee and supplemented its efforts.

The membership of the committee has remained unchanged throughout the year. It was necessary to replace the secretary and in accordance with the directions of the Council to secure the Council's approval. This was secured through the good offices of Dr. Ford. The new secretary is Mrs. Constance McLaughlin Green (daughter of Professor A. C. McLaughlin, former President of the American Historical Association), historian of the Research and Development Board, Department of Defense. As at present constituted the committee consists of five Government officials, Kent R. Greenfield, Raymond J. Sontag, Richard A. Humphrey, Philip C. Brooks, and Constance Green, and six non-Government historians, Hajo Holborn, Gordon Craig, Alexander Marchant, Jeannette Nichols, Dexter Perkins, and Conyers Read. It will be noted that two of the four Government officials, Greenfield and Sontag, were professors of history of national distinction before they entered Government service and that all the rest of the committee are trained historians.

The basic objective of the committee is to assist the Government in its historical enterprises. This assistance takes the following forms:

1. To assist the Government in recruiting competent historians for its historical tasks.
2. To assist the Government in establishing sound criteria for the appraisal of its historical products.
3. To persuade Government agencies of the importance of the historian's contribution in the formation of their policies, the appraisal of their policies and the record of their accomplishments.
4. To encourage Government agencies to publish those parts of their records which are relevant to the purposes of historical scholarship.
5. To induce Government agencies to make their records available to competent historical scholars.
6. To supplement the historical work of Government agencies by developing facilities through which considerable parts of its historical research tasks may be farmed out to historians outside the Government.

Your committee recognizes that a great deal of useful work in pursuit of these objectives has been accomplished by the Executive Secretary, but it believes the magnitude of the task to be such that it calls for more persistent and continuous effort than that which overworked officials can hope to give it.

In pursuit of its objectives your committee has been active as follows:

1. Historical personnel in Government.

a. After a preliminary canvass of the attitudes of Government agencies towards civil service techniques in the selecting of historians, your committee has been instrumental in inducing three of the most important departments of the Government acting with the civil service, to consider a revision of civil service techniques in selecting historians for Government service. The president of the American Historical Association has appointed a committee of three distinguished historians to assist in this work of revision. Unfortunately, the utilization of these historians, ridiculous as it may seem, has been delayed by difficulties of processing the appointees to consultant positions and the highly important business of establishing sound criteria for civil service guidance still attends upon the untangling of red tape. Your committee is bringing constant pressure to hasten the process.

b. Some Government agencies enjoy a considerable amount of freedom in the selection of historians without going through civil service channels. Your committee has been of considerable assistance to them. Government agencies in general are, we think, becoming increasingly aware of the availability of the committee for this form of service and are making increasing use of it. Your committee has recently held a long conference with Dr. Clarence Dahnhof, who is in charge of the organization of an historical project being set up, under presidential directive, in the defense emergency agencies. This conference, at Dr. Dahnhof's request, was largely devoted to the consideration of his personnel problems.

From the point of view of historians seeking employment, your committee has been of considerable service in revealing opportunities in Government service. It does not, of course, undertake to act as an employment agency, but its wide knowledge of personnel available and jobs available has in many instances served to bring the two together.

2-3. Establishment of sound criteria for the appraisal of historical work in Government agencies.

In pursuit of this objective your committee has made most progress by boring from within. It has encouraged and applauded Dr. Greenfield in establishing such criteria in army war histories and is exercising strong influence upon the State Department in the same direction. Its immediate aims have been:

a. To secure critical review of Government historical publications before they are published.

b. To secure critical appraisal of Government historical publications after they are published.

c. To impress upon Government agencies the importance of an expert critical appraisal of historical studies not primarily designed for publication but utilized in the formulation of policy. In this regard the committee's work has probably been most fruitful in the development within the agencies themselves of critical attitudes toward their own historical product. Your committee has been gratified to learn that careful appraisal of historical precedents is playing an increasingly important part in policy decisions.

In stimulating critical appraisal of Government publications the work of your committee has been more or less in line with the efforts of the Council's standing Committee on Government Publications. Your committee has been fortunate in having among its members, Dr. Jeanette Nichols, for many years chairman of that committee, and what it has done in this regard has been to a considerable extent supplementary to Mrs. Nichols' continuing efforts.

4. Publications by the Government.

More specifically, the committee has interested itself in the establishment of the National Historical Publications Committee, the selection of its members and the definition of its program. The personnel of this committee was finally completed last year, it held its first meeting in January of this year and submitted its preliminary report to the President in May. The scope of its activities is not yet clearly defined. In its preliminary report, it recommends for publication the unpublished or only partially published papers of a number of distinguished Americans. Your committee has been of some assistance in the preparation of this report. It clearly reflects only a very small part of a comprehensive program of Government publications. It does not touch at all upon publications issuing from the various department of the Government. What the National Historical Publications Committee does do is to provide a group of highly competent scholars appointed and authorized to consider the whole Government historical publications problem. It might, if it would, survey the whole field.

Your committee has interested itself particularly in departmental publications, notably those of (a) the National Archives; (b) the Department of State; (c) departmental histories of World War II.

With regard to the National Archives, the publication program of the Archivist, Dr. Wayne Grover, is an impressive one. We hope we can claim some credit for assisting in the formulation of it. Our relations with Dr. Grover have been very close. He has participated in many of our deliberations and a prominent member of his staff, Dr. Philip Brooks, is a member of your committee. We invite your examination of the admirable two-volume survey of Federal Records of World War II, of which the first volume appeared in 1950 and the second in 1951. They represent the results of an enormous effort of the staff of the Archives to reveal the actual data available for the writing of war history. More recently (September 1951) Dr. Grover and his staff have prepared for limited circulation a survey of the actual history, published or written or partially written, of civilian agencies in World War II. All of these works are indispensable preliminaries to the examination of the problems basically important to American historians, of bringing to some sort of completion the unfinished history of World War II which has so far involved an investment of Federal funds in excess of $10,000,000. This whole question of the unfinished history of World War II has been one of the chief items on the agenda of your committee. It evidently calls for continuing pressure by the profession if the unpublished and unfinished work is not to be altogether lost.

The publication program of the State Department is probably that part of the whole program of government historical publication of primary interest to historians. The Government Publications Committee of the American Historical Association has done monumental work in this area and its constant efforts have done much to stimulate government activities. Part of the effort of your committee has been directed to supplementing the work of Dr. Nichols and her colleagues, which it has been in a good position to do since a representative of the State Department, Mr. Humphrey, is a member of your committee.

More specifically, and particularly in the last year, your committee has directed its attention to the publication of the German Foreign Office Records, now in England, by a tripartite committee of the American, British, and French governments. The American Historical Association is in a particularly favorable position for action in this field since no less than four members of your committee, Holborn, Sontag, Humphrey, Read, in addition to Dr. Ford, are members of the Advisory Committee of the State Department appointed to oversee the project. The chairman of your committee paid a visit this summer to Whaddon Hall in England, where the German documents are held and are being processed, and got some insight into the nature of the task at close range.

From the point of view of the scholar, the material reveals itself in three forms: (a) The German files themselves cover the period from 1867 to 1945. (b) The microfilm made from these files, which has been in process of completion and will no doubt be completed, will cover the period from 1914 to 1945. (c) Volumes published from these sources, of which four have now appeared, cover the period from 1936 to 1939 in the English edition, together with two volumes in a German edition.

During the course of this work, all this material has been closed to scholars. Some of it has already been returned to the German government. The Allied governments have virtually committed themselves to the return of all the material prior to 1914 within the next year and the indications are that the material subsequent to 1914 will have to be returned within a reasonably short time.

The efforts of your committee have been directed to: (a) Making the original material at Whaddon Hall immediately accessible to accredited scholars. In cooperation with your committee, Dr. Schuyler, president of the American Historical Association, addressed a letter to the Secretary of State on the subject. This letter was passed on to the Advisory Committee of the State Department which, while acknowledging the pertinence of the request, decided that it was practically impossible to grant, since no access could be allowed without the concurrence of the British and French governments and since no outside scholar could possibly utilize the material in its present form.

(b) Making available the microfilm of the material which is in the United States. Actually the microfilms of the material covering World War I have been deposited in the National Archives and are now accessible to accredited scholars. Probably the greatest achievement of your committee has been to induce the Advisory Committee of the State Department to consent to a deposit of the subsequent microfilm material in the National Archives as soon as it has been completed and has served the purposes of the editor of the published volumes. The decision of the Advisory Committee will need to be approved at a higher State Department level, as well as by the British government, but subject to these obstacles, it seems not unlikely that microfilms of all the significant German Foreign Office Documents covering the period from 1914 to 1941 will be available to properly accredited American scholars at the National Archives as soon as it is practically possible to place them there.

From the point of view of the American scholar, the most serious question is in connection with the German papers before 1914. Very little has been done about these except to segregate and arrange them at Whaddon Hall. Public funds are not available to microfilm them and the indications are that they will be returned to Germany within a year. The Department of State has indicated that if private funds could be made available it would cooperate in the application of these funds.

Your committee has taken an active interest in this problem. It has been instrumental in securing from the American Philosophical Society a grant-in-aid which makes possible the early publication of the Holstein papers. It has approached different foundations with the idea of microfilming all the pre-1914 papers. Though it has met with no success in this overall proposal, it has been encouraged to hope that funds might be found for microfilming and perhaps even publishing relevant material on selected topics such as: (a) a critical appraisal from the original documents of Die Grosse Politik; (b) papers relevant to American-German relations at critical periods such as the Venezuela crisis or the Spanish-American War or the Algeciras Conference. A tentative list of such projects has been prepared by your committee and one of its members has undertaken to try to interest one of the foundations in financing one or more of them. If funds are found, it will still be necessary to find the scholar competent to do the work. Obviously anything that can be done, must be done, or at least well started, before the end of the present year.

The German Foreign Office papers are not the only German records which through one channel or another have come into the possession of the American Government. This material is far scattered. Your committee learns that a definite effort is now being made to catalog it. When this catalog appears, your committee will be in a position to take such action as seems relevant.

5. Accessibility of Government archives to scholars.

In its work on this subject last year, your committee made considerable progress. It persuaded many of the Government departments to formulate their rules and it arranged for a fruitful discussion of the whole subject at the last annual meeting of the American Historical Association. Within the present year, the editor of the American Historical Review has published in the July number of the Review a statement from the Department of State which was released for publication in January, and in the October number a similar statement from the Department of the Army. Your committee hopes that he will publish soon, through the same channel, a statement from the National Archives. Your committee continues to interest itself in the matter and is seeking to secure from other departments of Government analogous statements. The fact that some departments have committed themselves to a well-defined policy in this particular will, we think, serve as a challenge and a stimulus to other departments.

6. Farming out Government historical research.

Your committee has been active in trying to devise ways and means by which some part of the historical research program of Government agencies might be farmed out to scholars outside the Government. The difficulties in the way, particularly when classified material is involved, are obvious, though in the opinion of your committee not insurmountable. Actually a good deal has already been done in this direction, particularly by the State Department.

One aspect of this problem of particular interest to your committee is the utilization of candidates for Ph. D. degrees by assigning to them research projects for thesis subjects which Government agencies are eager to have done. The State Department has been very cooperative in the development of this idea. With the support of your committee, it has already prepared a list of topics suitable for Ph. D. theses or for post-doctoral research in which the Government is interested, and is about to distribute that list to universities which grant Ph. D.'s in history throughout the country. It is also prepared to facilitate the work of graduate students on this subject in the State Department archives. The idea has already been applied on a limited scale. Your committee hopes that when the State Department lists are distributed they will be scrutinized by those directing research work in history in American universities and, when possible, that thesis subjects will be assigned which are in line with State Department needs and desires.

THE FUTURE OF THE COMMITTEE

Your committee has an unexpended balance of $966.25 in the treasury of the American Historical Association from its current appropriation of $2,000. There is also in the treasury an unappropriated $500 from the Rockefeller grant of $2,500.

Your committee wishes to emphasize the importance of its continuing contacts with Government officials and the steady development of a reciprocal understanding between historians and officials. Much of what it has accomplished has been possible through the medium of its own committee members acting within their respective agencies. In the opinion of your committee, this constitutes one of the major channels of its influence.

Probably the best testimony to the continuing usefulness of your committee is the regularity with which 11 very busy men, in and out of Government, are willing to devote their time and effort to the meetings and the purposes of the committee.

Your committee requests (1) that it be continued at least for the year 1952, and that its unexpended balance together with the unappropriated $500 from the Rockefeller grant be released for its purposes. (2) Your committee recommends that it be established as a standing committee of the American Historical Association. (3) Your committee is unanimously of the opinion that it cannot operate successfully without adequate funds for at least eight meetings a year. It recognizes that the Association has no funds available for financing such a program and accordingly recommends that your committee be authorized to solicit support from other sources, such support to be administered through the treasurer's office of the American Historical Association.

Other Reports

REPORT OF THE DELEGATE TO THE AMERICAN COUNCIL OF LEARNED SOCIETIES

During the past year the Council continued many programs which have been mentioned in earlier reports, and which therefore need only brief comment here. For example, it sponsored several conferences which tried to explore relationships between widely separated disciplines. Two of these are of special interest to historians: a conference on relationships between science and the humanities, and a conference "to explore law as a field for humanistic study." Another continuing program is the one in Russian studies. Published under the joint sponsorship of the American Council of Learned Societies and the Social Science Research Council, the Current Digest of the Soviet Press has opened one of the widest cracks in the Iron Curtain. It is gaining new subscribers, and it is hoped that it will be financially self-sustaining in a few more years. Contracts for the publication of two more books in the Russian Translation Series have been signed. Finally, Mr. Silver's work on scholarly publication is beginning to produce results. Several carefully typed manuscripts are being published by photo-offset under controlled conditions, so that precise estimates of savings can be made.

The great expansion of the Council's fellowship program is, in a way, also a continuation of earlier interests. But the fact that money has been available for a larger number of fellowships has given the Council greater influence on American scholarship, and has also permitted some interesting experiments. The Faculty Study Fellowship frees the experienced teacher from part of his regular teaching schedule to give him time for reading and research in fields other than his own specialty. Thus a student of the eighteenth century may study the work of early scientists, or an art historian may investigate living conditions in the thirteenth century. The other innovation was a series of grants given to college teachers who lost their positions as a result of the threatened decline in enrollment. These grants were made to applicants who presented plans which offered "promise of relating their knowledge to the persistent problems of mankind and of developing their skills in communicating the interpretations of these relationships." These new fellowships continue the Council's policy, already expressed in its graduate fellowship program, of widening the interests and making more significant the research of American scholars. This policy should help to increase the influence and prestige of humanistic studies.

At the annual meeting, the American Musicological Society was admitted to membership and the American Society of International Law withdrew. The following officers were elected: chairman, Cornelius Krusé; vice-chairman, Margaret Mead; secretary, William R. Parker; treasurer, Louis B. Wright.

REPORT OF THE DELEGATE TO THE SOCIAL SCIENCE RESEARCH COUNCIL

The members of the Board of Directors of the Social Science Research Council from the American Historical Association spent an active year in the Council's affairs. Mr. Clough served as member of the Economic History Committee, the Historiography Committee, and the Executive Committee. Mr. Ellis was a member of the Historiography Committee and a special committee on Faculty Research Grants. The undersigned served on the Problems and Policy Committee and as Chairman of the Committee on International Cooperation among Social Scientists and Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Council.

The Committee on Historiography, headed by Professor Ralph Turner of Yale, is about to conclude its deliberations and to present a significant report on the intellectual relationship between history and the other social sciences. The Committee on Economic History is no longer connected with the Social Science Research Council but has been set up independently. Various members of the American Historical Association have been recipients of grants-in-aid, faculty research fellowships, faculty research grants and area research training fellowships. A series of census monographs which will be developed in cooperation with the United States Census Bureau and the Social Science Research Council will undoubtedly have material of interest to historians.

Efforts are continuing, particularly under the influence of the committees on Social Behavior, Political Behavior, Economic Growth, Southern Asia, Slavic Studies, and Near and Middle East, to work out closer relationships between historians and their fellows in the social sciences.

REPORT OF THE REPRESENTATIVE ON THE BOARD OF THE NATIONAL RECORDS
MANAGEMENT COUNCIL

The National Records Management Council has had an extremely successful year. In addition to systematizing and preserving the records of a number of large business companies the Council has developed record-keeping plans for the Army Air Force and the State of Michigan. The latter task was assisted by a grant from the Kellogg Foundation. From the fees charged for its services the Council has established a cash reserve equal to over twice the original grant received from the Rockefeller Foundation. The reserve, except for a sum necessary to guarantee the continued functioning of the Council, will be devoted to research and publication.

Knowledge of the archival needs of all types of business is rapidly being acquired. This will lead to the publication of manuals that will inform scholars of the types of records generally available in various businesses, and show executives the material that should be a permanent part of the historical record. In addition to such research the Council will continue its fellowship program for training archivists.

Emmett J. Leahy, who has been chiefly responsible for the success of the Council, was reelected president, Arthur H. Cole, of Harvard University, was reelected chairman of the board, and Robert Schiff, a member of the Council staff, was elected vice-president.

REPORT OF THE REPRESENTATIVE ON THE EDITORIAL BOARD OF Social Education

The Editorial Board of Social Education met on Thanksgiving, 1950, at Minneapolis, in a slimly attended meeting. In attendance were Chairman Howard Anderson, William H. Cartwright, Erling M. Hunt, Robert E. Keohane, and Royce Knapp. The reports of the editor and of the business manager were considered and approved; the 1950-51 budget proposals were adopted; and the editor was authorized to publish an additional 16 pages of material during the 1950-51 school year if in his judgment this were advisable. The editor plans to publish a series of articles entitled, "New Interpretations in the Social Sciences," and another, "Landmarks in the Social Sciences." Both series have since this meeting been instituted with marked success. Together with important reviews by leading historians of such important volumes in the history of social thought as Lord Bryce's Modern Democracies, De Tocqueville's Democracy in America, and Bellamy's Looking Backward, these new series have, as they have developed, contained substantial history contributions. The policy previously urged by the Council and the undersigned, as its representative, has therefore been developed by the editor, Lewis Paul Todd, with marked success. Members of the American Historical Association should be urged to co-operate with him even more fully in the future in making Social Education an effective vehicle for the enlightenment of teachers of the social studies and social sciences on all levels.

REPORT OF THE REPRESENTATIVE ON THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE OF THE HISTORICAL SCIENCES

The Executive Committee (Bureau) of the International Committee of the Historical Sciences met in Stockholm June 11 and 12, 1951, with Samuel Eliot Morison representing Donald C. McKay, the present American representative on the Bureau. The next meeting of the committee will be mid-June 1952 in Brussels, at which time the General Assembly, which includes two representatives of each of the member countries, will also meet. At these meetings in Brussels the general objectives of the International Committee will be discussed. It is to be assumed, although the minutes of the Bureau meeting do not say so, that there will also be discussion of the Congress in Paris in September 1950, based particularly upon the critiques of the members of the Bureau. It is to be assumed also that the initial discussion of the forthcoming Congress in Rome in 1955 will take place (unfortunately the Italian representative to the Bureau, Signor Luigi Salvatorelli, was not able to be present in Stockholm).

Extended reports of the various commissions sponsored by the International Committee were presented in Stockholm. M. François, on behalf of the Committee on the International Bibliography, presented the proofs of volume 18, covering publications for the year 1949 (this volume has since been published). In this connection, Sir Charles Webster asked that a report on the future conception of the International Bibliography be prepared by the president of the commission on the Bibliography and sent to the presidents of the national committees. The latter will then be able to send their reactions to the secretary general, so that the whole question of the International Bibliography can be effectively examined at the next meeting of the General Assembly. The remaining reports on the commissions were of somewhat less interest.

The Société de l'Étude Historique Japonaise has asked that Japan be made once more a member of the International Committee of the Historical Sciences. Mr. Morison offered to secure further information concerning this organization prior to action (he has since done this and the information has been sent to M. Fawtier, the President).

M. François noted for the information of the members of the Bureau that there has now been created in the National Archives in Paris a service which keeps track of all researches being carried on by French and foreign scholars in all of the archives of France. The usefulness of this service needs no comment.

Since this was the first meeting of the Bureau following the Congress of 1950, the range of business was somewhat more restricted. It is to be assumed that the sessions both of the Bureau and of the General Assembly will devote themselves to a full-dress discussion of the business of the Committee in Brussels next year.

Mr. Morison was not well impressed with the efficiency of the French and of the Secretary General, and even less so with the arrangements made by the Swedish national committee for the meetings in Stockholm. In Paris we had had great hopes that the Italians would bring real interest and energy to the arrangements for the next Congress. In this connection, it is unfortunate that their representative was not present at the Stockholm meeting of the Bureau.

Report
OF THE
PACIFIC COAST BRANCH OF THE AMERICAN
HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION

Proceedings of the Forty-fourth Annual Meeting

The forty-fourth annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Branch of the American Historical Association was held at Stanford University, December 27-29, 1951. The total registration was 205. The program was prepared by a committee consisting of Vernon Puryear of the University of California, Davis, Chairman, Raymond H. Fisher of the University of California, Los Angeles, Max Savelle of the University of Washington, and S. Harrison Thomson of the University of Colorado. Local arrangements were in charge of George Harmon Knoles, Chairman, Carl Brand, Edward Brooks, David Harris, Clarence McIntosh, Frederick Schneider, James Stone, and Edward White.

The meeting opened on the evening of December 27, with an informal reception in the lounge of Roble Hall.

President Van Nostrand announced that the next annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Branch would be held at the University of British Columbia, December 28-30.

The chief matter of new business was the presentation of a plan by John W. Caughey to create a Louis Knott Koontz memorial award for the best article presented each year to the Pacific Historical Review. The funds for this award are being raised by friends of the late Professor Koontz, to honor his loyal and distinguished service as managing editor of the Review. The Board of Editors would select the best article each year and the Secretary-Treasurer of the Branch would manage the funds. The plan was adopted unanimously after discussion.

The forty-fourth annual meeting ended with a reception and tea, through the courtesy of the Phi Alpha Theta Chapters at Stanford University, University of California, Berkeley, and San Jose State College.
